New President Takes Oath of Office at 12:51

Eisenhower, Truman On Stand During Inaugural Ceremony

WASHINGTON (AP) — A deadly serious John F. Kennedy became president today in deadly times with an eloquent plea for the Communists to join him in a quest for peace lest all humanity be destroyed.

He took the oath from Chief Justice Earl Warren at 12:51 p.m. EST.

The simple, impressive ceremony took but a moment, and Kennedy immediately plunged into the world problems that unquestionably will occupy most of his thoughts during the next four years.

Nearly all the notables in the nation were here — governors, senators, representatives, supreme court justices. A few, including former President Herbert Hoover, were kept away by last night's snow storm.

Ex-President Harry S. Truman was on the inaugural stand, beaming to see a Democrat take over the White House again after eight years of Republican rule.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, who at 70 is the oldest president we ever had, listened quietly.

Late on Stand

Kennedy, who had arrived at the Capitol early, did not come on to the inaugural stand until 12:12 p.m., or 12 minutes late.

Even then the program wasn't ready to begin, and there was considerable milling about on the platform.

Eisenhower and Kennedy didn't seem to mind. They chatted amiably and at times energetically.

Neither smiled much. Mostly, Kennedy listened soberly, squinted.

Wintry Weather Marks Inaugural

WASHINGTON (AP)—John F. Kennedy took the oath of office today with the solemn pledge that this nation will defend liberty at all costs, and with an eloquent plea to the Communists to join in a new quest for peace.

It was a blustery, cold, raw day, and Kennedy looked out on Capitol grounds blanketed with an 8-inch snow. . . .

"Let every nation know," Kennedy said in his inaugural address, "whether it wish us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend or oppose any foe in order to assure the survival and success of liberty."

Then, without mentioning the Communists by name, he said:

"To those nations who would make themselves our adversary, we offer not a pledge but a request: that both sides begin anew the quest for peace, before the dark powers of destruction unleashed by science engulf all humanity in planned or accidental self-destruction."

In this frigid setting — you'd have to go back to the blizzard of 1909 at William Howard Taft's inauguration for a worse one — Kennedy held out warm words for the future.

"If a beach-head of cooperation can be made in the jungles of suspicion, let both sides join in the next task: creating, not a new balance of power, but a new world of law, where the strong are just and the weak secure and the peace preserved forever," Kennedy said.

Kennedy had worked hard on this speech, hoping to make it a

Eisenhower Busy Last Day in Office

WASHINGTON (AP)— On his last day in the White House, President Eisenhower got to his office at 7:15 a.m. to finish up last-minute correspondence.

He was up at 6:15, had his usual breakfast of orange juice, a four-ounce rare steak, toast and coffee.

Since the office was being painted, he shifted his activities to the cabinet room.

There was a full house at the White House last night.

Between 30 and 35 members of the White House staff, unable to get home because of the heavy snowstorm, were put up for the night.

Eisenhower showed up for his last day of work as President in informal attire. He wore gray slacks, a salt-and-pepper sports jacket and a gray bow tie.

Bud Stewards Goodby

Eisenhower allowed himself only time to get back to the living quarters of the White House to prepare for the 11 a.m. arrival of his successor, John F. Kennedy.

Eisenhower, after dictating to his personal secretary, Mrs. Ann Whitman, went to the mess room in the White House basement to say farewell to the Filipino stewards and engage in a bit of final chit-chat with them. While he was in the mess, members of the White House staff dropped in.

Kennedy's naval aide, Cmdr. T. S. Shepard, happened to be there when Eisenhower arrived.

Seven Killed in Rebel Ambush

ALGIERS — Seven persons, including a French army chaplain and four nurses, were killed last night in a rebel ambush near Algiers.

They were returning from a tour of flooded areas near the Grib dam, about 60 miles from the city.

Machinegun bullets smashed into the chaplain's car and a truck following in which the nurses and two Moslem soldiers were riding. Three of the nurses were Moslems.

102 Escape Death

NEW YORK (AP)—A jet airliner crashed Thursday night seconds after taking off in a wind-whipped snowstorm. The huge ship's speed sent it slamming across a highway, clipping an auto and skidding in flames into a marsh.

Of the 106 persons reported aboard, 102 escaped death, although at least 26 were injured, several critically.

The dead tentatively were identified as four of the eight crew members — three men and the woman purser. Sixty-one of the 98 passengers aboard the four-engine airliner are residents of the United States.

Bound for Mexico City

The airliner, a DC8B of Aeromexico, went down at 8:25 p.m. It was bound nonstop for Mexico City.

One survivor, G. Terry Sechrist, of Farmington, Conn., said the plane got about 50 feet in the sharp protest against what is air, then skimmed down. Other survivors weren't certain if the plane ever got off the ground.

Idlewild Airport observers said the $3-million craft had to get aloft to clear a concrete fence at the end of the runway. The plane did hit a wire fence just beyond the concrete barrier. Sections of the wire fence were enmeshed in the wreckage. The front section of the plane became enveloped in flames.

Inquiries Started

The Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Agency began on-the-scene investigations in an attempt to learn the cause of the crash.

The one person aboard who might have the answer is William B. Poe, 52, of Miami, Fla., check pilot aboard the plane. But Poe's condition early today at St. Joseph's Hospital in Queens was described as "still critical."

Noting that the plane took off in a blinding snowstorm with winds up to 25 miles per hour, Rep. Steven B. Derouanian, R-N.Y.,

Rebels in Congo Hold 12 Belgians In Reprisal Move

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—The U.N. command today said 12 Belgians have been arrested by incensed rebels in Stanleyville seeking revenge for the transfer of Patrice Lumumba into the hands of his enemies in Katanga province.

U.N. overtures for the Belgians' release were curtly rejected. The rebels charged the U.N. command with connivance in the ex-purser's transfer from an army camp near Leopoldville.

Rajeshwar Dayal, head of the U.N. Congo operation, fired off a sharp protest against what is living in the rebel-controlled provinces of Oriental and Kivu.

Cold, Little Snow Seen Over Weekend

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy and a little colder tonight and Saturday. Light snow likely again northwest portion by Saturday afternoon. Outlook for Sunday: Variable cloudiness, with occasional snow flurries and continued cold.

Appleton — Temperatures for the 24-hour period ending at 9 a.m. today: High 23, low 1. Temperature at 10:30 a.m. today 10. Barometer reading 30.00 inches, with wind from the northwest at eight miles an hour. Light snow flurries.

Sun sets at 4:47 p.m., rises Saturday at 7:22 a.m.; moon sets at 9:45 p.m. Prominent stars are Capella and Arcturus. Visible planets are Mars and Venus.

New Efforts To End Strike

Emergency Talks Show No Indication Of Early Accord

NEW YORK (AP) — Union and management negotiators renewed efforts today with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to end a strike of harbor crewmen against 11 railroads which has shut down two major railroads serving the city.

Emergency negotiations sponsored by the governor recessed at 2 a.m. today with no progress toward settlement reported. They resumed at the governor's office shortly before 10.

Harassed commuters on the paralyzed New York Central and New Haven railroads were challenged anew by a snowstorm, curtailing plans for the colorful parade of men and missiles, leading to subway terminals at the northern boundary of the city. Empty subway cars indicated many had remained home.

The governor said the tieup was "getting close to catastrophic proportions."

23 Degrees, Snow Blanket

Enthusiastic Spectators See Parade Despite Blustery Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spectators lined up along Pennsylvania Avenue today, bundled up against the biting cold, to watch the inaugural parade for incoming President John F. Kennedy.

Twenty-degree cold and an eight-inch snow failed to dampen spirits as the early comers of an expected large throng — in the heaviest clothes at hand, gathered along the historic route and at the capitol, scene of the swearing-in ceremony.

The mile and a half parade route from the Capitol to the White House had been cleared, right down to the pavement, by an army of men and a huge array of equipment borrowed from the army. Crews had even brushed the blowing snow off many of the street-side bleachers.

Democrats, celebrating their turn to executive power in Washington, jubilantly decided against curtailing plans for the colorful parade of men and missiles, bands and beauties, and even a navy PT boat.

3,000 Clear Route

Three thousand workmen worked all night in the cold and snow to clear the route.

At least 550 snowplows, dump trucks and other removal equipment were mustered. Hundreds of stalled cars had to be towed out of the way of the grand march.

Maine's state float was right in style for the weather, with dogs mushing over a fake snow scene.

It was a taste of native New England winter for the youngest President ever elected to lead the strongest of the democracies. It didn't daunt Kennedy, who was keeping right along with his busy inaugural schedule of parties and public appearances.

Roster of 32,000

The parade was planned to be the finest spectacle ever staged for a Presidential inauguration.

Kennedy and the new vice president, Lyndon B. Johnson, and their parties had the best viewing spot from a stand right in front of the White House.

The parade roster included 32,000 people, nearly twice as many as four years ago. Half the participants were military. There were over 40 bands — and a seemingly endless procession of drill teams.

The parade had a pass-by schedule of 2 hours and 46 minutes — but it was anybody's guess what the weather would do to the timing. Shorter inaugural parades in the past have run well past dusk.

As for every inaugural parade,

Acquit Newsman At Murder Trial

HERMANN, Mo. (AP) — Crime Reporter Theodore C. (Ted) Link was acquitted of a first-degree murder charge yesterday. A circuit court jury found him innocent on the first ballot.

Link, 55-year-old veteran reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, had been charged with slaying a rooster-do-well handyman who had a reputation for being dangerous. He was Clarence W. Calvin, 35, once a part-time worker for Link at the reporter's summer place near St. Albans, away from Britain until March 6 'Mo.

Queen, Prince Philip Leave for Asian Tour

LONDON — Gay and smiling, Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip flew out of misty London today to begin a 20,000-mile Asian tour.

Royal visits to India, Pakistan, Nepal and Iran will keep them away from Britain until March 6 'Mo.

10 Below Zero Reading Seen For Tonight

Temperatures in the Fox Cities are expected to drop to 10 below zero tonight under clearing skies, the Green Bay weather bureau said at noon.

The cold snap is expected to put an end to light snow flurries and hold temperatures 10 to 15 degrees below normal for the next five days.

Snow fell in the north and eastern sections of the state last night and early today as the cold front pushed down from Canada. Winds are expected to be moderate from the north tonight.

Saturday's high is expected at 10 degrees.

Papers of Europe Wish Kennedy Well

Even Communist, Leftists Organs Hint New President May Bring Better International Relations

LONDON (AP) — Newspapers of Britain and Western Europe gave John F. Kennedy their best editorial wishes today, and most of them expressed high hopes for the outcome of his fresh leadership.

Even communist and other left-wing organs cautiously suggested that his inauguration may bring a change for the better in international relations.

"Kennedy," said London's mass-circulation Daily Mirror "may turn out to be the most significant and dominating figure to stride on the political stage since the end of World War II."

world, receive the news of today's inauguration... with considerable relief... in the international politics of today a United States that is able and willing to act is of decisive importance." Aktuell (socialist), Copenhagen — "It is a long time since a new American president has been received with such an openly expressed optimism. His inauguration may envisage a change to the better on the international level." America's Asian allies—South Korea, the Philippines, Nationalist China and Japan—sent their congratulations to the new president.

Kennedy Starts Inaugural Day Attending Mass

Leaves Home Early After Only About Four Hours Sleep

WASHINGTON (AP)—John F. Kennedy, with only about four hours sleep, started his inaugural day by attending mass at his Catholic parish church.

He left his Georgetown home at 8:55 a.m. for Holy Trinity Church, about three blocks away. He was driven in a car by a secret service man.

Kennedy stepped out into the cold bright day onto his snow-covered steps and told newsmen who greeted him that he was feeling fine.

He had gotten home at about 3:45 this morning after a pre-inaugural round of festivities snarled by the snow storm that tied up capital traffic.

Quiet Breakfast

Andrew Hatcher, a press aide, said Kennedy rose at 8 a.m. and had a quiet breakfast served on a tray in his sitting room.

But first of all the President-elect requested a reading copy of the inaugural speech prepared for delivery at capitol shortly after noon.

The copy of the speech was brought to him by his personal secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, who had been forced by the weather to spend the night at a house across the street from Kennedy's home.

For breakfast, Kennedy had a large glass of orange juice, poached eggs on toast, three or four slices of bacon, and coffee with cream and sugar.

His wife Jacqueline was not up at the time he left for mass, press secretary Pierre Salinger said. Kennedy arrived at the historic old church, the oldest Catholic church in Washington, about five minutes late. He took a seat in the 11th row on the right hand side, upsetting secret service plans to put him in the balcony.

Pray Silently

Kennedy knelt at his pew to pray silently before the low mass, specially scheduled in his honor, got under way.

Kennedy did not receive Holy Communion, though about half of those attending the service did so.

One element in that was the breakfast he ate before going to church. Catholics are directed by church law to fast for at least three hours before receiving Communion. The bacon the President-elect ate on Friday — normally a meatless day — was allowed under a dispensation effective in the Washington diocese for inauguration day.

Scientists Working On English Project Called Back to U. S.

JODRELL BANK, England (AP)—American scientists working with the world's largest radio telescope at Jodrell Bank have been recalled to the United States. The team manager William Young said Thursday.

The group which came to Britain 2½ years ago, comprises 8 electronics experts and 3 dependent families. They cooperated tickets sold would bring an estimated $1.3 million toward defraying campaign expenses. Kennedy said the party had gone into debt with the end of the U.S. series of $4 million to win the presidency.

Stars Stage Glossy Revue for Kennedy

Weather Forces Massive Show to Start 1 Hour, 40 Minutes Behind Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP)—John F. Kennedy, the howling storm and bitter cold outside were forgotten.

Bette Davis, Frederic March, Sidney Poitier, Anthony Quinn, and Olivier started it off. Each briefly recited some aspect of the world, the United States, and the presidency in the hour of Kennedy's coming to office.

Then, for more than two hours, the stars followed each other on stage.

Frank Sinatra, co-producer of the show, quipped that "nobody in the cast is young enough to be in the new Cabinet."

There were singers Sinatra, Ethel Merman, Helen Traubel, Louis Prima, Ella Fitzgerald, Nat King Cole and Harry Belafonte. Between songs, comedians Joey Bishop, Alan King, Jimmy Durante, and Milton Berle held the stage. Gene Kelly and Juliet Prowse performed the main dance numbers.

After the intermission, Johnson was introduced and spoke briefly. He said the appearance of so many people on such a night was "a perfect example of the spirit of the Democratic party. Neither rain, nor sleet, nor snow can stop the Democrats once they get going."

Mrs. Kennedy did not stay until the end. She left around 1 a.m. As the last number closed, and the house lights went up, Sinatra announced, "The president-elect, John F. Kennedy." The audience rose to a man and gave Kennedy a long ovation.

Clergyman Admits He Burned Two Churches

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A Baptist minister stunned his parishioners Thursday by admitting, officers said, that he had burned down two of his churches. He said he didn't know why.

Officers booked on arson charges the Rev. Leonard Rhoads, 44, whose First Southern Baptist church in Palo Alto was destroyed by fire Dec. 13. Deputy Dist. Atty. Harry Parker said the vide supplemental religion teaching beyond the secular education down his church at Fontana Nov. 16, 1956.

Wait for Hour

Apparently in order to give other guests time to arrive, Kennedy and his wife waited in a reception room for an hour instead of going to their box. The show was timed to start a moment after he took his seat. It was an hour and 40 minutes late.

The armory, with a capacity of 13,000, was about half filled when the show started. Democratic officials hoped nevertheless that the party had gone into debt with the end of the U.S. series of $4 million to win the presidency.

Jews Disagree With Cardinal

Dispute Arises Over Remarks on Federal School Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — Five national Jewish organizations disagreed today with Francis Cardinal Spellman's recent remarks on federal aid to church schools.

The religious and civic bodies said distributing such funds to other than public schools would violate both public opinion and the U.S. Constitution.

A statement was issued jointly by the American Jewish Congress, Jewish Labor Committee, Jewish War Veterans, Union of American Hebrew Congregations (Reform) and United Synagogue of America (conservative).

The cardinal, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, had aroused Protestant leaders by saying at an archdiocesan meeting last Tuesday that plans for federal school aid would be unfair if the money went only to public schools and not to church-operated schools.

An education task force of the incoming Kennedy administration called for a $9.3 billion program of federal aid to education. Cardinal Spellman's remarks followed.

The Jewish group said they do not consider exclusion of Jewish religious schools from federal aid programs discriminatory. "We deem the maintenance and furtherance of the Jewish religion to be the responsibility of the Jewish community, a responsibility which we have no desire to impose either in whole or in part upon the American taxpayer," their statement said.

"While it may appear to be a heavy burden upon religious groups to finance their schools exclusively out of the voluntary contributions of their adherents, in the long run acceptance of government support would be even more costly to the cause of religious freedom."

The bulk of Jewish schools providing supplemental religion teaching beyond the secular education down his church at Fontana Nov. 16, 1956.

Prepare Bill to Make Use of Vote Machines Mandatory in State

Fond du Lac Assemblyman Says Units Would 'Pay for Themselves'

MADISON — Voting machines favor a return to paper ballots would replace the printed lots.

McEssy said he had not gone into the mechanics of the bill but was "inclined to think the cities, counties and towns would have to provide the machines."

McEssy said today he is preparing a bill that would make the use of voting machines mandatory throughout the state.

Enactment of the proposal, McEssy said, "would bring our voting system more up to date."

Although the use of voting machines has been authorized in Wisconsin since 1901, they were used in only 334 of the state's 34,476 precincts in the 1960 elections.

Thirty-three Wisconsin municipalities including 21 cities, 10 villages and two towns currently use voting machines. All but nine of the municipalities adopted them after World War II.

Cost Runs High

A major hurdle facing McEssy's bill is the cost of machines. They run more than $1,600 apiece. McEssy believes the initial cost would be offset by "long run" economies.

"Accuracy, speed and efficiency are just as important as cost," he said. "The machines will save both time and money. Where they are in use they have paid for themselves in a relatively short time."

A 1952 survey conducted by the Wisconsin Legislative Reference Library seems to support the assemblyman's contention. In answer to a questionnaire the reference library found the 20 municipalities using voting machines generally did not consider them expensive originally or in the long run.

Quicker Returns

The communities agreed that the use of machines resulted in some savings in labor and printing costs. But the major advantages were quicker returns and greater accuracy.

The survey found that in no case would the municipal election offi-

Unions and Libel Suits

A Wisconsin circuit court judge has issued what attorneys for both a labor union and a company say is the first ruling of its kind in this state. The judge, Eugene Baker, of Elkhorn, ruled that the International Molders and Foundry Workers (AFL-CIO) could sue the Whitewater Manufacturing Co. and its president, Robert J. Stevenson, for damages for libel. The action is based on letters which the company and Stevenson wrote to employees prior to a union representation election in August, 1959.

The ruling has interest not only because it is the first of its kind in Wisconsin but also because it expresses a point of view which many citizens, whether members of unions or not, probably have had for some time. The ruling strikes down a company contention that a union as a voluntary, unincorporated association does not have the legal capacity to sue. This stand brought the following comment from Judge Baker:

"Whatever may be the views of a citizen, today unions are recognized as a vital force in the economic, social and political life of this country . . . I believe that courts will more and more recognize that unions are legal entities which by the very nature of their position in society must assume the same responsibilities as well as to enjoy the same rights as other recognized artificial persons." The court also said that "It is my opinion that the courts cannot and will not create a situation wherein a union is a legal entity for some purposes and has no existence as such for other purposes."

While the decision in this particular case only permits the libel action to go to trial, it could have a widespread effect in permitting unions to sue for damages in actions outside contractual rights, that is, in tort actions which are suits for damages not involving contracts.

The decision of Judge Baker may be appealed to the State Supreme Court. If upheld, it would establish a precedent in Wisconsin law. It would give unions the right to sue in civil courts in noncontractual matters and, conversely, it is assumed, it would permit companies and individuals to sue unions for damages allegedly caused outside contracts.

Previously, unions took a more common action in cases where they felt companies had used unfair labor practices to prevent ratification of a union in a representation election. The unions would appeal to the National Labor Relations Board for a new election if they lost the representation vote. In the Whitewater case, however, the union chose to sue for libel, going directly into a state court rather than through the sometimes cumbersome and slow-moving machinery of the NLRB.

Whether the decision by Judge Baker is in conflict with provisions of the federal labor law could enter the picture. There is a vast no-man's land in which no determination has been made whether state or federal law should be applied in union or company appeals.

Judge Baker's decision, at least, comes closer to a recognition of the fact that unions, although they may be voluntary associations in a legal rather than actual sense, do have some rights under the law previously not delineated. At the same time, the decision implies, if it does not actually say so, that unions have responsibilities just as other legal entities, such as corporations.

Thus, not only unions could sue a company for false and defamatory statements but companies or individuals could also sue unions for similar statements.

There have been instances of such statements on both sides in labor disputes over the years. The decision by Judge Baker, if upheld, might make both sides in such disputes more careful in their choice of words in the future, and bring about discussions on a level of fact, principle and issues rather than on personalities, straw men, and exaggeration.

It's getting so this country is so namby-pamby that nothing but the blood and gore of modern murder and psychological aberrations are acceptable any more.

A skit lampooning the new President of the United States and his lovely wife was pulled off television as not in "good taste" because the actors were actually playing the parts of the first people of the land. Most of the lines have been joyfully reprinted in newspapers which seem to have a different interpretation of good taste than the networks. The skit apparently was something that President Kennedy would have enjoyed as much as many vice-presidents did the musical, "Of Thee I Sing."

Now a statue named The Rescue, portraying a pioneer defending his wife and child against a marauding Indian, has been removed from the steps of the national capitol. Maybe it would have been better to have made a statue depicting a white raid on a group of helpless Indians to even things up, but instead we are supposed to forget all about the incidents which played such a big part in our early history. Indians and pale faces now are friends and besides Congress wants to erase the reservations and get all the Indians paying an income tax.

There is one happy side. The Civil War just won't be forgotten. This year there begin hundreds of battles refought, monuments raised, cemeteries rededicated, gunboats launched, slaves freed. We just might finish up in April of 1965 and find that this time the South had successfully seceded.

Race Information on Birth Certificates

New York recently became the first city in the United States to eliminate racial information from its birth certificates. Now Baltimore has announced that, beginning next year if the State Board of Health approves, it will discontinue noting racial designation on birth certificates. There is nothing in Maryland's state law requiring this information and so it is expected the State Board of Health will approve.

This information has been carried on birth certificates in practically all states as a matter of course because it appeared to serve a valuable purpose. It is being removed from future birth certificates because of complaints that such information contributes to discrimination against racial minorities. We do not know how important the change is in the matter of discrimination in New York and Baltimore but it certainly must have some force or there would not be the demand for a change strong enough to alter the city's recording system. New York has announced that next year it will delete the same information from death certificates. Baltimore has not indicated any interest.

That the information is important and valuable is indicated by the fact that both Baltimore and New York will continue to record racial statistics in a confidential file for use by the city health department for charting incidence of disease and for other purposes.

This information is of great value to many others who will not have access to confidential files from the Health Department. Therefore it is unfortunate it is necessary to delete the information from public records. Concealing information probably is not the best way to eliminate discrimination. Many religious and racial groups have been discriminated against in the past. Most of them were able to work their way out of this situation without concealment of such information. It should be noted that after the record of life is written and historians come to give credit to racial or religious groups they need substantiation in the form of birth certificates which no longer will be available in these two cities. Thus in the long run the racial groups which now are seeking a temporary advantage through the concealment of information may suffer a loss through their inability to claim credit where credit is due.

Five Measurements Of Auto Accidents

From The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department's Bulletin

Five major measurements are used to determine the seriousness of our automobile accident problem. It may be valuable to us to compare our Wisconsin ratings with those of the entire nation, enabling us to judge where we stand in relation to the average of all states.

1. Accident Ratio: This is the ratio between fatal accidents, injury accidents and property damage accidents. Through research and statistical study developed over many years, the ratio for urban areas is 1-35-200, while in rural areas it is 1-20-35. Wisconsin's ratio in urban areas last year was 1-72-200, while in rural areas it was 1-14-29.
2. Mileage Death Rate: This is perhaps the most significant rate. It is based on gallons of gasoline sold in a state, and the rate represents the number of traffic deaths per 100,000,000 miles of vehicle travel. The rate includes non-resident vehicle travel as well as resident vehicle travel. The U. S. rate in 1959 was 5.4, while Wisconsin's rate in the same year was 5.33, just a fraction over the national average.

3. Population Death Rate: This is the number of traffic deaths per 100,000 population. The U.S. rate in 1959 was 21.4, while Wisconsin's rate in the same year was 20.5, slightly under the national average.

4. Registration Rate: This is the number of traffic fatalities per 10,000 registered vehicles. The U. S. rate last year was 5.4 deaths per 10,000 registered vehicles, while Wisconsin's rate in the same year was 5.3, again just under the national average.

5. Economic Cost: Considering calculated unit costs of $27,400 per death, $1,250 per non-fatal injury, and $230 per property damage accident (including wage losses, medical expense, overhead cost of insurance and property damage loss), last years economic loss due to traffic mishaps reached an estimated total of $6,200,000. Wisconsin's share amounted to $121,830,000.

Other losses hard to estimate are those resulting from congestion due to the traffic tie-ups following accidents and the personal hardships borne by survivors.

Who can measure the impact of a highway tragedy on the life of any person whose husband, wife, child or other loved one has been snatched from the land of the living all too soon?

Accident Reports Prove Speed Biggest Factor in Fatal Crashes

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Each day I have read of so many deaths due to car accidents, that I feel something must be done.

In an editorial of your paper of Jan. 7, I read as follows, "Here we have indications that driver failure was the cause of nearly half of the accidents." The crashes are explained by such terms as "swerved off highway," "veered out of control," "hit culvert," "car went out of control and overturned," "car hit railway train" and it goes on with more descriptions similar to these.

Don't these descriptions tell you one thing is evident? The motorists must be driving their cars faster than they have control of them.

The driver can't seem to control the tremendous power put into the cars of today. Many people agree, the cars are built so well, drive so smoothly the driver often times does not realize the high rate of speed he is traveling.

Put a lower speed limit on the machines so they can travel only at a safe and controllable rate and many people's lives will be saved.

We know that all the safety slogans in the world won't slow down these drivers.

Something must be done. It can be done!

Says Speaker Misinformed About Russia

Editor, Post-Crescent:

If only the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth could be heard over radio and television, and read in the newspapers. This remark is occasioned by the Jan. 12 lecture of Dr. John Bennett over the State FM stations on "Religion and the Cold War." This was a very interesting talk; Dr. Bennett was sincere but apparently misinformed on true conditions in Russia and other Communist countries today. He gave a much too rosy picture of the Soviet Union and the Communist attitude and aims. Unfortunately, there still exists a reign of terror in Russia today, and in China. This is testified to by the thousands of refugees who daily flee the Iron and Bamboo curtains. Two books by former enslaved men come to mind — John Noble's "I Was a Slave in Russia" and "The Hidden Russia" by Nicolai Krasnov.

To say, however, that this reign of terror is there to stay is to take a defeatist — and unrealistic — attitude. To recognize Red China would only strengthen the grip of Communism over the minds and bodies of the captive people. The Peiping regime does not represent the Chinese people — it enslaves them.

Under the Capitol Dome

No Budget Should be Considered Sacred

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Some politicians who are worried about voter reaction to state expenditure trends have developed a gimmick in their search for defenses.

One illustrated in a speech before a moderately critical audience the other day.

"Look," he said in effect. "More than seventy-five per cent of the state budget now goes for highways, education and welfare services. Even if the remainder is cut brutally, it can't be cut enough to overcome the deficit that is in prospect. Ergo, we will have to increase taxes."

It may be that the state will have to increase taxes. It is reasonably certain that it is going to do so, whatever the justification.

But such reasoning is specious in the extreme. It assumes that every last demand of the public services represented by those principal expenditure categories actually is needed and that every last expenditure they now are authorized to make is sacred, indisputably essential to the public weal. No one who has moved about in public affairs circles is inclined to accept any such assumptions.

THE MEANING

What such nervous politicians probably ought to be saying is that they don't dare to examine critically the demands of some of these major services because of the political pressures they are able to command, which is something quite different.

That is what some of the incumbent officeholders mean when they challenge critics of high spending and high taxation to name the public services they would prune or abolish.

"Get up in public to tell the people," the demand goes, "that you want to cut back education, or help for the poor folks, or farm to market roads."

Obviously the plain citizen is not equipped to pin-point criticism of public budgets. That is why he elects representatives suited to his own political views. What he knows, however, in evidently increasing instances, is that the costs of government are becoming painful and that

Here's Way to Get Gold Back Into U. S.

From The Sacramento Bee

Military and political leaders of NATO are considering the possibility of stationing West German and other European troops on United States soil. The purpose would be to reduce the drain of American gold occasioned by the spending by American troops and their dependents in Europe.

As the New York Post said, Hitler once boasted that one way or another the wehrmacht finally would land here.

the news about even greater pains in store isn't exactly welcome news.

Nobody wants to be known as a foe of education. But virtually everybody who has had any contact with governmental administration or experience with it knows of examples, however small, of wasteful or dubious expenditures. There is no special reason for him to assume that they do not occur with the same frequency in the enormously big services that take up most of the tax harvest in the state and the locality each year.

CONTRASTS

The private but nevertheless real envy in some of the state-house administrative services about the comparative affluence of operations in higher education, as an example, is commonplace.

There are some vital but small and less powerful public services existing on a truly spartan diet in Wisconsin, when measured against the huge popular programs in education, roads and welfare.

The bystander is tempted to conclude that if there is unnecessary spending in the Wisconsin public services in the aggregate it is more likely to be among the "untouchables," precisely because their political power has encouraged their appetites.

But the dollar wasted in the school or in a welfare bureau is as surely a drain upon the populace as the dollar wasted on a futile travel expense voucher in any other agency. To assume the sanctity of 75 per cent of the public expenditure dollar is to reduce the legislative budget process to absurdity.

New Frontier Somewhere Near Harvard Campus

From The Northern Virginia Daily

When Harry Truman was a resident of the White House, the jokesters used to say that in order to get anything in Washington you had to be from Missouri. From the list of top flight appointments being handed out from Palm Beach these days it appears that in order to qualify for the New Frontier you must be a Harvard man. Apparently the New Frontier is located somewhere near Cambridge, Mass.

Although it may not be a requirement to be a Harvard man, a counting of noses in the Kennedy hierarchy shows that it pays. If the present trend in Harvard appointments continues, it will not be long until job seekers all over the nation will be boning up on the Harvard drawl and rising in reverence at the first strains of the Harvard alma mater.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By Lichty

"Did you ever see such a crowd at an inaugural dinner? . . . They certainly must have owed a lot of people! . . ."

Day Dangerous
To U.S. Security
Enemy Attack
Could Wipe Out Nation's Leaders

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — The flavor is Hollywood. Noted theatrical stars perform, as the money for tickets helps pay political expenses, but there is surprisingly little interest in just how these were incurred.

Despite the weather, the watching crowds and the parades along historic thoroughfares are festive, as in a Roman holiday. The inaugural ceremony itself is reminiscent of the coronation of a king.

Two minutes before noon one man is clothed with the power to defend the nation against surprise attack. Two minutes later a new that the inauguration be held in scrupulous enemy to choose! Assembled in an area of a few hundred square feet on the Capitol plaza is the entire government—the President and his Cabinet, other key men in the executive departments and agencies, the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, and the members of Congress—along with the military chiefs and sub-chiefs, the diplomatic corps, the governors of several states and their staffs, heads of corporations and labor unions, and a sizeable number of the nation's leaders in all fields!

Continuity in government is purely theoretical. Transition is being described as "smooth," but this is mostly because it is accomplished without personal, racial or ill feeling and in a spirit of co-operation.

Confusion, Drifting

"Continuity," is an ironic word. The transition in government really means confusion as there is a changeover of 90 top executives and sub-executives. Most of the officials in the new administration here will not be familiar with the background of their jobs for months to come.

Apart from the desires of the politically victorious to celebrate—and they are happy and gay today in their triumph—the fact remains that the way the United States changes presidents is not suitable for a nuclear age. Confusion and a kind of irresponsible drifting take the place of an efficient operation.

The alibi is offered that below the 90 top executives is an army of civil servants who stay on from administration to administration. But if the career employees can carry on the affairs of government so well, one wonders why the 90 executives are hired in the first place.

The 90 executives do have the power to form policy and to make decisions while the subordinates usually take no risks but pass on matters of routine.

Enemy Attack

The military chiefs stay on, but there has been so much hue and cry about civilian supremacy being needed at the Pentagon that one wonders whether these military men would venture to make decisions on their own unless the emergency were of a truly alarming nature.

Thus the Air Force maintains a partial airborne alert around the clock and has facilities for detecting, if not intercepting, oncoming planes and missiles. It isn't known exactly how much advance warning of an attack we can be sure of, but it is a matter of minutes. America is supposed to take the "first blow" and do what it can afterward with what missiles or weapons are left.

The inaugural ceremony, brief as it is and followed by a three-hour parade, should emphasize the risks incurred nowadays when government stops functioning for even a little while.

The whole setup is one that developed in times when America was protected by two oceans and when hostile warships had to spend many days approaching our shores.

Slipshod System

As for the general operations of government, nobody appraises the damage to the citizens resulting from inefficiency or neglect of the public interest during the transition period.

Concentration of power in our own government as related to executive functions is essential, but the situation cries out for a better system of transition and a more gradual rotation of personnel so that everything doesn't have to be replaced within a few days.

Mr. Eisenhower has suggested some inauguration day for an untold autumn soon after the election and at least 80 days before Congress is convened in January. This might help on the weather side and reduce somewhat the confusion of the present method of transition, but the flaws in the system are more basic. The need is for fixed terms that do not expire at the same time in all important administrative offices below the Cabinet level. It may take a disaster some day to awaken public opinion to the dangers of the present slipshod system of "transition."

Buildings Set for 7 State Colleges;
Oshkosh Unit Cut

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Final planning for construction of nearly $7 million worth of new dormitories at eight of the Wisconsin state colleges has been approved by the Board of State College Regents.

The board, meeting here Thursday, approved sites and preliminary sketches for 10 dormitories—including two each at Whitewater, Platteville and Stevens Point. The others would be constructed at Eau Claire, La Crosse, River Falls and Menomonie.

The board, on recommendation of the state architect, reduced the size of the proposed 500-bed unit at Oshkosh to a structure with 246 beds.

It is hoped to start construction of the dormitories in March and April this year to provide 2,500 additional beds by 1962.

The board also approved bids totaling $1,421,799 for a new library at Oshkosh State, with the general contract going to Jim Cullen Inc., Janesville, for $674,459.

Regents authorized the board staff to pare costs of an elementary laboratory school at River Falls to $1 million. Original bids exceeded the appropriation allotted for the school.

The Law and You
Defamation Grounds for Suit
Unless One Party Privileged

Defamation is a legal term that remarks go beyond the plain news includes false and derogatory remarks made orally (slander) or printed (libel) which injure a person's character or reputation. If you are damaged by such statements, you may sue the person making them. If the statements are true, the maker has a good defense, even if publicizing the truth is damaging to your reputation.

Sometimes a person is "privileged" to make defamatory remarks. That means that he is immune to suit even if they are not true. How is this possible?

Suppose a store watchman suspects an employee of stealing the corporation's merchandise and accuses the employee of theft. Even if the employee didn't steal, the accusation is not actionable if the watchman had good reason to believe the employee was stealing, sure no one is listening when he says something that may be slanderous. A qualified privilege isn't destroyed merely because a state But it can lose this privilege if it acts maliciously, or if it lets the

To Install New Paper Machine

GREEN BAY — The Charmin Paper Products Co. is scheduling expansion of its paper making facilities, it was announced today. M. J. Auchter, the firm's vice president in charge of manufacturing, said a new paper machine, auxiliary equipment and building will be constructed beginning this year at Charmin's Division B in Green Bay. The project, estimated to cost several million dollars, is tentatively expected to be completed late in 1962.

Full details will not be available until engineering is complete in a few months, Auchter said. However, the estimated time schedule calls for early stages of building construction by late this spring or early summer.

Consideration is being given to locating the new building in close proximity to the existing paper mill and converting buildings on the company's Division B property. In addition to housing the new paper machine, the building will contain necessary repulping equipment.

The new Yankee paper machine will be designated as No. 10. It is expected to be the largest of Charmin's paper machines. Production of either two-ply or single-ply tissue will be possible on the new equipment.

The installation will bring the company's total number of paper machines to ten. During 1960, two machines, Nos. 8 and 9, were completed at the firm's Cheboygan, Mich., division.

Presently in Green Bay there are two paper machines at Division B and five at Division A. Remodeling of one of the Division A machines was completed recently and extensive changes are currently in progress on another.

SPEBSQSA Board
To Plan Chorus,
Quartet Contests

The 10-man executive board of the Land O'Lakes district, SPEBSQSA, will meet at Milwaukee Saturday afternoon in connection with the midwinter meeting of the international board of the barbershop singing society.

Russell O. Johns, Kaukauna, treasurer of the district board, will sit in on planning for a regional quartet elimination contest at Eau Claire May 5 and 6 and for the district annual meeting and quartet chorus contest at Fairbanks, Minn., Nov. 3 and 4. Sites for sectional elimination contests will be fixed.

Winning quartets in the Eau Claire regional will represent the district in international competition at Philadelphia in June.

Text of Kennedy's Inaugural Address

Declares Nation Ready to Pay Any Price to Assure Success of Liberty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is form of colonial control shall not be the text of President Kennedy's inaugural address.

My fellow citizens: We observe today not a victory but a beginning. We are here to renew our old alliance between ourselves and the vastness of space and time. For the eyes of the world are now upon us, and the eyes of the world are upon us, and the eyes of the world are upon us.

Mass Misery To those peoples in the huts and villages of half the globe struggling to break the bonds of mass misery, we pledge our best efforts to help them to help themselves, to bring the abundance of modern weapons, both sides overburdened by the cost of modern weapons, both sides overburdened by the cost of modern weapons.

Let both sides join to invoke the wonders of science instead of its terrors. Together let us explore the stars, conquer the deserts, eradicate disease, tap the ocean depths and encourage the arts and commerce.

Let both sides unite to heed in all corners of the earth the command of Isaiah — to "undo the heavy burdens . . . and let the oppressed go free."

Let every nation know, whether it wish us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe in order to assure the survival and success of liberty.

To those old allies whose cultural and spiritual origins we share, we pledge the loyalty of faithful friends. United, there is little we cannot do in a host of new areas to which our new world is opening.

To those new states whom we welcome to the ranks of the free, we pledge our word that one leashed by science engulf all humanity in planned or accidental self-destruction.

Zwicker Moves Offices Into New Quarters

Zwicker Knitting Mills, 410 N. Richmond St. will move its general offices into its new building Saturday and Sunday.

Offices now are on Packard Street, in a building constructed in 1934. The office staff has increased from seven to 25 since the old quarters were built.

The new office has walnut finish paneling. Partitions are movable to allow rearrangement of departments. Ceilings are of white acoustical tile.

Most walls are white. Some pastel colors are used in executive offices, and all doors are charcoal. There is recessed fluorescent lighting.

A new feature is a separate sales room. Customers formerly were taken into the research department to inspect material.

Other operations will be moved into the new building during the next several weeks. These include the research department, also on the first floor, packing and shipping on the second floor, and storage and yarn winding in the basement.

A $275,000 building permit was issued to construct the new building, the firm's fifth addition.

Let both sides join to invoke the wonders of science instead of its terrors. Together let us explore the stars, conquer the deserts, eradicate disease, tap the ocean depths and encourage the arts and commerce.

Do It Yourself Find Cause Before Fixing Plaster Cracks

BY J. RALPH DALZELL
Author of Books on Home Building and Repair

Satisfactory repairs to plaster cracks cannot be made until it is understood why cracks occur. Then, following proper procedures, lasting repair work can be done. The correct procedure is a little painstaking but not difficult.

Assuming that good materials and workmanship are the rule, influences were not present. Two common influences causing plaster cracks are settlement and contraction and expansion or realignment of structural members.

Settlement in any building usually occurs within a year or two after construction. The plaster cracks are not likely to open and close. They are stationary. Contraction and expansion generally occur when seasons change. The plaster cracks also open and close with the seasons. They are unstable.

Stationary Cracks: (See pictures 1, 2 and 3). Most cracks range in width between one-sixteenth and one-eighth inch. The cracks (as shown in picture 1) extend to the lathing. The cracks may extend diagonally along walls or ceilings and around windows and doors. For best results, when repairing stationary cracks, the repair material should be locked into place. To create a lock, use an old knife or screwdriver to increase the size and shape of the crack (as shown in picture 2). The A and B sides should be beveled as shown.

After dampening the inside area of the enlarged crack, use any of the commercial patching compounds to fill in (as shown in picture 3). Be sure to form the ridge. This allows for contraction of the compound and avoids a concave surface. After the compound is dry, wrap sandpaper around a block of wood and sand the ridge down flush with surrounding plaster. Finally, seal the repaired area using shellac or other sealer before repainting or repapering.

Need Reinforcement
Unstable Cracks: (See pictures 4 and 5). There is no point in re-

Basement May Be Necessary In New Home

Determine Need, Problems Before Selecting Plans

In planning a new home, the question arises: whether or not to have a basement.

There are a number of things to consider for instance:

Is there a drainage problem? If your home is on low ground, where drainage is a problem, a basement might be a constant source of trouble.

Can the basement also be a recreation room? If this is so, it opens an entirely new area of work is not possible. It should be replaced.

Q.—Is it good practice to remove all sanding dust from a wood surface using a damp cloth? A.—No. Do not use either a damp or dry cloth. Best results are obtained using tacky paper or a vacuum cleaner.

Q.—Can shellac be used to serve the purpose of glue? A.—Yes. Apply it to the surfaces to be joined and allow it to become tacky before pressing the surfaces together.

home enjoyment. You can have a room especially designed for fun. If this is in your plans, use equipment and materials to keep maintenance at a minimum. That's why tile for floors and walls is popular. It's easy and inexpensive to care for.

Storage Room
Is there direct access to the outdoors? Without a basement door, the utility of your basement will suffer, and so will the inside cellar stairs which will have to carry all the traffic.

Is there adequate storage room elsewhere? A necessary function of a basement is storage. If there is no space elsewhere, a basement becomes essential regardless of cost.

These are just a few of the questions involved. There are many others to be considered. The important thing is to think carefully about the basic need or lack of it.

A Distinctive Design marks this Midwestern ranch because of placing the living room and dining room in line across the width of the house. There are three bedrooms and a den. Total living space is 1,662 square feet.

Center of Attraction in the living room of this home is the sunburst fireplace, with radiating lines in the masonry, continued through diagonal lines of wood paneling.

The In-Line Living and dining rooms, with connecting TV room, assure ample entertainment area. The long kitchen has a cheery breakfast corner, surrounded by windows.

House of the Week

This Ranch Has Unusual Plan

BY DAVID L. BOWEN

There's an air of warm Midwestern hospitality about this neat three-bedroom ranch, designed by Architect Elmer Gylleck of Elgin, Ill.

The living and dining room are in line. Contrary to the usual arrangement which places these rooms parallel to the front wall, in this home they run from front to back between the bedroom section and the service area.

One of the extras this makes possible in B-47 in the House of the Week series is a television room separated from the dining

B-47 Statistics

Stone and brick veneer impart a distinction to this seven-room ranch. There are three bedrooms, two baths, television room, in line living and dining rooms and a large kitchen with breakfast space.

Living area totals 1,662 sq. ft. Over-all dimensions are 69' 8" in width by 34' 8" in depth. Entry foyers have been placed at both front and side entrances.

room by a folding partition. If the TV watchers are a minority, the accordion doors can be closed to separate the viewers from the talkers.

Guest Room. At other times, the doors can be opened—making the TV screen visible from dining room and even the kitchen.

With a door opening into the bedroom hall, the TV room also can double as a guest bedroom. Architect Gylleck points out that the back-to-back plumbing of the two full baths in the bedroom section holds the cost of this luxury to a minimum. The closet in the master bedroom is extra large, taking up almost an entire wall.

Service Entry. There's convenient access from the two-car attached garage through the service entry into the breakfast space which is part of the long kitchen. Basement stairway is directly opposite the side entry.

B-47 has seven rooms and the total living space is 1,662 sq. ft. Over-all dimensions are 69' 8" in width by 34' 8" in depth. If desired, the home could be built on a slab foundation and the basement eliminated. In this case, heating equipment would go into the space now marked for basement stairs.

The exterior of the home is primarily brick veneer, with some stone veneer and vertical wood siding on the front elevation.

Stone Fireplace. The front entry is bounded on one side by a decorative wood louver. The living room fireplace is of a distinctive sunburst design, with lines radiating from the hearth first in the stone of the chimney and then in the wood paneling covering the adjoining wall. Sliding glass doors lead from the dining room onto the rear terrace.

Kitchen counters are arranged in a shallow U, with range and sink side by side. Note the large closet in the kitchen, which could be used as a pantry.

The closet shown at the rear of the garage could either be used for storage or, if desired, could be equipped with plumbing to make a convenient lavatory.

Senators Laugh Over Yale Background of New Defense Counsel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cyrus R. Vance, selected by President-elect John F. Kennedy to be general counsel for the Defense Department, got a laugh from senators Wednesday because he is a Yale man.

Noting that many of the other Kennedy Defense Department appointees are Harvard men, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., asked Vance, "Will they take the advice of a man from Yale?" "I hope so," Vance replied amid laughter at the Senate Armed Services Committee hearing on his designation.

With Wax, Varnish

Restore Floor Finish After Holiday Wear

Take a look at your floors. If holiday entertaining and the children's Christmas vacation have played havoc with them, now's the time to restore a beautiful finish.

If the finish on your floor was protected with wax, probably all you will have to do is to remove the old wax and apply a new coat. The best way to do this is with mineral spirits, being careful to provide good ventilation and remembering not to smoke while working with this volatile solvent.

Be sure to wipe up all the solvent before it dries, for otherwise the wax will be redeposited. Then apply wax, paste or liquid.

Small worn areas in the old finish often can be successfully re-touched without removing the old finish completely. Before applying new varnish or shellac, the floor should be cleaned to remove all dirt and stains. Then it should be sanded using fine to medium sandpaper, foving with the grain to remove rough spots and glossy areas.

Varnish Carefully. Remove all dust with a vacuum cleaner and wipe the floor with a tack or dust rag. If the wood has been roughened from wear, sand smooth and apply a penetrating sealer to prevent the varnish from darkening this spot. Flow on the varnish, avoiding lap marks.

If the old finish was a penetrating sealer, clean the worn area by going over it with steel wool saturated with a sealer. Wipe dry, and if necessary apply additional sealer.

Eventually, in spite of periodic waxing and spot refinishing, the old finish will have to be removed completely. The most satisfactory way to do this is with an electric sander which can be rented. Where possible, scratches should be sanded out. Deep scratches can be filled with a plastic-sawdust compound and sanded smooth when dry. When strips of flooring are replaced, be sure the same species of wood is used. If this is impossible, use a light wood and stain it to match the rest of the floor.

Vacuum the floor to remove all dust and sandings. Then go over the floor with a clean mop dampened in mineral spirits, taking care not to wet the floor to any degree.

Penetrating finishes or sealers are widely used for hardwood

Lonely Lighthouse To be Converted

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Stannard Rock lighthouse, often referred to as the "loneliest" outpost in the United States, will be converted to automatic operation shortly after the opening of the 1961 navigation system.

Resident personnel no longer will be required to man the lighthouse which is 45 miles north of here in Lake Superior. The Coast Guard now assigns two men to the "rock."

They penetrate the fibers of the wood and form wear-resistant surface which does not extend above the surface of the wood. The finish wears away as the wood itself does and refinishing is required less often.

Floor sealer is applied liberally with a long-handled applicator, first with the grain, then across it to assure full coverage. After the drying time specified by the manufacturer, the surface should be buffed with steel wool, using an electric buffer. Vacuum to remove all steel wool particles and dust, apply a second coat, thinned according to instructions and with the grain only. If greater gloss is desired, the sealed floor can be waxed or varnished.

Most popular floor finish is varnish, which comes in varying degrees of gloss, with high gloss giving the greatest wear resistance. Varnish should be flowed on with a full brush with the grain; then cross stroke with a lightly loaded brush. Keep brushing to a minimum and try to keep the area as dust free as possible.

New Nonfreeze Faucet Prevents Bursted Pipes

Homeowners who forget to turn off outdoor garden hose faucets before a freeze, and pay the penalty in having to replace bursted pipes and repair damage, may safely forget this chore if they have a plumbing contractor install the right kind of a faucet.

This is the non-freeze wall faucet or yard hydrant, a type of faucet designed with a built-in shut-off valve that protects the pipes from freezing.

This faucet is installed at a slight downward angle that allows natural draining of the water after the valve has been closed.

Q. Our cocker spaniel is expecting her fourth litter this winter. We would like her to have her puppies outside. Do you think it will harm her or the puppies? Mrs. R. R. Martin, Florissant, Mo.

A. Not if you make adequate preparations. First, the dog's house should be big enough, certainly not less than nine square feet, to accommodate your dog and her expected litter. Protect the opening of the house with a wind breaker, placed not more than two or three feet away. Electric, thermostatically-controlled heating panels are available for dog houses and are a must in your case. Use hay or newspapers for bedding rather than blankets to avoid the possibility of the puppies smothering. Your biggest problem is in the food department. Remember, a female having puppies requires large amounts of fluid and food which must be kept warm at all times, even when it's freezing outside.

One style of necklace is shown in Figure 1. This requires a handful of straws one inch long. They may be the waxed paper variety or may be made of plastic. Carefully cut a dozen straws into one-inch lengths. String them on a double white thread. Simply press the needle through each straw near one end. The straws may be spaced an eighth of an inch apart; they won't slide together as beads would. The straws may, of course, if you wish, be strung snugly together. To provide color, some of the straws—every other one, for example—may be painted with fingernail polish before being strung.

Pass the needles through each straw, entering at opposite ends. When one straw has been strung, string another the same way. Continue until the band of straws is long enough for a bracelet. Tie a knot in the threads. Then tie the two ends of the bracelet together. (Copyright, 1961) memorable American document. He pruned it down to 1,348 words, brief by presidential inauguration standards.

Kennedy Pledges U. S. To Safeguard Liberty

Traffic Stalled
Undoubtedly Kennedy wasn't thinking about possible weather conditions when he drafted his talk, but a short speech, following immediately after the oath of office, certainly was what the weatherman ordered.

By mid-afternoon traffic was stalled, visitors found themselves unable to get a taxi and the taxi unable to move if they found one, and the best laid plans of the inaugural committee skidded helplessly on the icy surface.

An 8-inch snow Thursday snarled the jam-packed capital, with its archaic traffic circles and normally heavy homebound traffic.

Snowplows Busy
But during the night the snow mercifully stopped and hundreds of snowplows went to work. Aided by rock salt, they cleared the 1½-mile parade route along Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol to the White House.

No inaugural address, and few presidential speeches at any time, ever were devoted so exclusively to foreign affairs.

Kennedy, 43, the youngest man ever elected president, began by looking back on this country's heritage.

"The same revolutionary beliefs," he said, "for which our forebears fought are still at issue around the globe—the belief that the rights of man come not from the generosity of the state but from the hands of God."

New Generation
"We dare not forget today that we are the heirs of that first revolution."

"Let the word go forth from this time and place, to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans—born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a cold and bitter peace, proud of our ancient heritage—and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this nation has always been committed, and to which we are committed today."

Kennedy stood bareheaded as he delivered his inaugural address from the open, windswept stand on the east side of the Capitol Building.

Capital Crowded
Kennedy was undaunted by the storm and told newsmen he thought the snow would "add extra zip."

But inaugural officials still were shaken by Thursday night's experiences when a snowstorm brought the city almost to a standstill and put an icy grip on the pre-inauguration fun.

The 8-inch snow, whipped by winds of more than 20 miles an hour, hit this place when it was already bursting at the seams with celebrating Democrats.

Cars were inching along, when they moved at all. Batteries went dead. Gas tanks ran dry.

Men and women, dressed in their evening finery, were spotted trying to push stalled cars.

Street cars lined up front to back, unable to budge.

Many Stranded
Many of those who live in near-by Virginia and Maryland found themselves stranded in Washington, with all hotel rooms taken.

Many who had planned to fly into Washington found the National Airport closed down. Among those in this plight was former President Herbert Hoover, who returned to Florida because his plane couldn't land.

Kennedy and the man who became his vice president, Lyndon B. Johnson, managed to get to both of Thursday night's major events, the symphony concert and the $100-a-ticket Democratic Gala.

Mrs. Kennedy left the gala at the intermission. Kennedy stayed looking back on this country's heritage through the entire performance, then went to a downtown restaurant with friends. He remained until after 3 a.m.

Kennedy planned to attend Mass at 9 a.m. today at the Holy Trinity church in Georgetown, his parish church.

The gala and the concert were pale copies of their glittering dreams.

Musicians Late
At the time the concert was supposed to begin only 20 members of the 95-piece orchestra had been able to mosh their way to Constitution Hall. When conductor Howard Mitchell started the performance, 45 minutes late, he still had several missing musicians, including the violin soloist, Mischa Elman.

Although all seats were sold long ago, only a sparse crowd showed up. But it gave Kennedy and his wife, Jacqueline, a big hand.

There were more problems at the gala, where singer Frank Sinatra had lined up an all-star show. The program didn't begin until 10:40, an hour and 40 minutes late, and even with latecomers still straggling in, the big armory was only about half filled.

Crowd Curtailed
Although snow removal equipment worked steadily in an effort to improve driving conditions, the size of the crowds was expected to be sharply curtailed everywhere. The best the weatherman could predict was a windy 32 degrees.

Nearly every important political figure in America has come to see this quiet but still dramatic shift of presidential power—governors, senators, representatives, Supreme Court justices, new Cabinet members.

Although Hoover couldn't make it, two of the other three men who have held the office, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, are here.

New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller canceled his plans to come because of the New York rail strike situation.

Watching the curious customs of this country are the representatives of other nations, some friendly, some not so friendly, some unfriendly and knowing well they're a major part of the problem with which Kennedy must wrestle.

Cannot be Weak
Kennedy said the United States does not dare tempt the adversary nations by allowing itself to be weak—"only when our arms are sufficient beyond doubt can we be certain beyond doubt that they will never be employed."

Although Kennedy made no direct reference to the situation in Cuba, he in effect reaffirmed the Monroe Doctrine when he said: "Let all our neighbors know that we shall join with them to oppose aggression or subversion anywhere in the Americas. And let every other power know that this hemisphere intends to remain the master of its own house."

In a call for Western unity, he said, "We dare not meet a powerful challenge at odds and split asunder."

He pledged to help underdeveloped nations to help themselves "not because the Communists are doing it, but because it is right."

To his own fellow-citizens Kennedy said, "ask not what your country will do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

As for himself, he said "in the long history of the world, only a few generations have been granted the role of defending freedom in its hour of maximum danger."

"I do not shrink from this responsibility—I welcome it. I do not believe that any of us would exchange places with any other person or any other generation."

"The energy, the faith and the devotion which we bring to this endeavor will light our country and all who serve it—and the glow from that fire can truly light the world."

"Jungles of Suspicion"
Kennedy, at 43 the youngest man ever elected president, said he knows neither he nor anyone else alive today may live to see "the new world of law" he envisages.

But "let us begin," he said, by trying to achieve "a beach-head of cooperation . . . in the jungles of suspicion."

The note he sounded during his campaign, of young men setting out again to push back a frontier, echoed throughout a speech devoted in almost every word to the problems that haunt a peace-seeking world, rather than to domestic issues.

"Let the word go forth," he proclaimed early in the address, "that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans—born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a cold and bitter peace, proud of our ancient heritage, and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this nation has always been committed."

Pledges to Free World
Then the new President made these pledges to the peoples outside the Iron Curtain—pledges, as contrasted with what he termed his "request" for a joint effort with the other camp:

To "old Allies whose cultural and spiritual origins we share . . . the loyalty of faithful friends . . . we dare not meet a powerful challenge at odds and split asunder."

To the states emerging from colonial status, "our word that one form of colonial control shall not have passed merely to be replaced by a far more iron tyranny."

Help for Other s
To these same states assurance that "we shall not always expect to find them supporting our every view," but a bit of advice too:

"In the past, those who foolishly sought to find power by riding on the tiger's back inevitably ended up inside."

"To those peoples in the huts and villages of half the world struggling to break the bonds of mass misery . . . our best efforts to help them help themselves . . . not because the Communists are doing it, not because we seek their votes, but because it is right. If the free society cannot help the many who are poor, it can never save the few who are rich."

To the other American republics "a special pledge—to convert our good words into good deeds in a new alliance for progress—to assist free men and free governments in casting off the chains of poverty. But this peaceful revolution of hope cannot become the prey of hostile powers."

MORE MORE MORE MORE
U. N. Best Hope
Kennedy added a particular pledge to the United Nations, "our last best hope in an age of Khrushchev and lesser communists, the President said: "we re-fer outpaced the instruments of peace."

To the international organization whose halls resounded during the past year with denunciations and to enlarge the area to which shouted by Soviet Premier, its writ may run."

Irish Town Where Kennedy's Clan Started Celebrates Inauguration

NEW ROSS, Ireland (AP) — The Augustine Friars is smaller church is the main part of its daily life.

They're inaugurating tonight here and busier. New Ross is predominantly Roman Catholic—like the rest of the Irish Republic—and the Since New Ross was the starting point of the Kennedy clan several centuries ago, town patriarch Andy Minihan has organized a celebration.

Joseph Kennedy, a third cousin of the new U.S. President, will lead a torchlight procession through the town and raise the U.S. flag on the graystone quayside from which the President's world 110 years ago.

New Ross, once a thriving port, then was in the misery of famine. Like a million others, Lawrence Kennedy, the President's great-grandfather, boarded a sailing ship to build a new life across the Atlantic.

Lives on Farm
Other Kennedys stayed in New Ross. In their own way they've not done badly.

Third cousin Joseph is 45 and a farmer. He lives on his own 18 acres in a white-painted cottage not much different from the tiny farmhouse Lawrence Kennedy left four generations ago.

The stone-floored cottage is warm and friendly inside in the soft light of the oil lamps. A log fire burns in the open hearth and the big iron kettle bubbles on the chimney hook.

The single seat is an iron wheel with a handle. Mrs. Kennedy, Annie Roach that was, leans down to turn the handle, driving a fan that sets the log fire blazing.

Michael, their son, is a sturdy 3-year-old.

New Ross is a neat stone town astride the River Barrow 14 miles from Ireland's southernmost coast.

Once a half hundred sailing ships tied up at the river quay, bringing in coal and taking out grain. Now the sailing trade is lost to steam, and the youngsters who emigrate leave from Cork or Dublin.

Above the town, at the head of a street so steep that it is cut into steps, stand the two churches.

Cromwell's Onslaught
St. Mary's is the Protestant church, the remains of a great abbey. Part of its roof and aisles are open to the sky, unrepaired from Oliver Cromwell's onslaught on the town in 1649.

The Roman Catholic church of St. Augustine's is a fine example of 18th-century architecture. It was built by the Cromwellians as a place of worship for the Protestants who came to the town after the Cromwellian conquest.

said in a statement from Washington: "Next week I will introduce some legislation to make it mandatory that no takeoff or landings of planes will be allowed unless visibility is 2.5 miles and the minimum ceiling is 2,500 feet."

Low Visibility
Visibility at the time of the crash was a quarter of a mile, and the ceiling about 300 feet.

Winter Fails To Disturb Parade Crowd

this one put its star attraction up front. Only the usual introductory array of police and marshals, backed by the Army Band and a battle group of infantrymen, preceded the presidential limousine.

Open sedans and limousines were lined up outside the Capitol to receive President and Mrs. Kennedy and Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson after lunch.

Spread around for miles, waiting to hear the cry of "forward march" at 1:30 p.m. EST, were an estimated 32,000 paraders, including nearly 16,000 from the armed forces; 40 marching units; 100 pieces of heavy equipment, from a PT-boat to ornate floats.

Costumes ranged from dress uniforms to Hawaiian pa'u, a colorful garment that island women wrap around their skirts for horse-back riding. Three lovelies from the islands wore them on the 50th state's float, which was fitted with a gadget to blow the scent of orchids over the crowds.

For a day on which mere men demanded overcoats, seven pretty young things perched among the palms and fruit trees of Florida's float.

While gaiety was the keynote, sobering reminders of the crises facing the new administration appeared at regular intervals—rockets, the nose cone recovered from Discoverer XIV, tanks and guns.

And there was the last of the Navy's PT-boats of the type commanded by Kennedy in World War II. Here to man it were eight of the original crew on Kennedy's craft, which was split and sunk by a Japanese destroyer.

Parade officials hopefully forecast that the pageant could be completed in less than three hours. The parade route extended for 2.2 miles. Spaced one behind the other, parade units would cover just about the same distance.

Grandstands, including presidential reviewing quarters in front of the White House, were erected at a cost of $260,000 to accommodate 35,000 spectators. Seats cost from $3 to $25. Thousands more could stand for free along the curb.

All were well watched. Some 5,000 police and security men were stationed at the Capitol, in buildings, in cruise cars and in the crowds.

Parade officials did their best to maintain a lively pace. Their manual carried a warning in capital letters that any laggard units would be yanked on the spot and placed in the rear rank.

In addition to service bands and military units—including cadets and midshipmen—the parade was divided into state groups. Governors headed most of these units.

Massachusetts sent a float portraying Kennedy's career, from infant to politician. Texas did likewise for Johnson with a float theme ranging from covered wagon to a globe emitting space ships.

Yakima, Wash., gave it the sharpest twist. It furnished a band from the Dwight D. Eisenhower Senior High School.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—With no intention of detracting from President-elect Kennedy's inauguration, this city is celebrating "Elvis Stahr Day" today.

It's in honor of the former University of Kentucky provost and law college dean named by Kennedy as Secretary of the Army.

Aid Association For Lutherans Has Again Attained Remarkable Growth During 1960

AAA life insurance, in excess of $247,000,000, was added in 1960 for the benefit of AAL members. Members who live in Appleton and vicinity shared in the benefits of this growth.

By the outstanding performance of the representatives listed below, the Blankenburg Agency has been awarded third place among the 55 AAL General Agencies in the United States and Canada.

Synodical Conference Lutherans are invited to contact the AAL representative in their community for service and information on:

- Retirement Income
- Family Income
- Insurance for Children
- Educational Insurance
- Family Plan
- Mortgage Insurance
- Retirement Annuity
- Monthly Income
- Monthly Income Disability
- Estate Clearance
- Income Protection

These trained AAL representatives are professional life insurance counselors. They are anxious to tell you about the special difference AAL members share — LOWER NET COST life insurance. Write or phone for an early appointment.

Premontre Quint Rallies to Down Hawks, 77 to 65

Cadeis Score Final 13 Points Of Game; Wesley Sets Pace

Green Bay Premontre High School rallied in the final quarter to defeat Xavier's Hawks, 77-65, in an exciting basketball contest here Thursday night.

The Cadets outscored Xavier, 21-6, in the final eight minutes, as Xavier could manage only one basket.

This marked the third straight Hawk defeat at the hands of the

Ray Bluth Leads Weber by Five Peterson Points

All-Star Runnerup Jumps From Ninth Place in One Day

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Ray Bluth, who lost the 1959 All-Star Bowling Championship in the 100th and final game, appears determined to avenge that disappointment this year.

The St. Louis star was more than five Petersen points ahead of runnerup Dick Weber today going into the second half of the four-day finals of the 1961 event. During the first two days, Bluth won 22, lost 9 and tied 1 game while averaging more than 210 per game.

These statistics were translated into 159-27 Petersen points, the standard by which the $68,150 tournament is conducted.

965 Series
Bluth closed Thursday's action with a dramatic eighth-round series of 965 for four games, enabling him to sweep a match with Richard Robinette of Huntington, W. Va.

Billy Welu, captain of the St. Louis Falstaffs, went from the sublime of his record 983 series Wednesday to an almost ridiculous 185 average for the first three rounds Thursday.

He finally came to life in the final session of the day with a 913 series and now is in sixth place.

Weber jumped from ninth to second place Thursday. He managed to pile up 154-14 points.

Phyllis Notaro, from Brant, N.Y., moved into the lead in the women's division in the final round of the day. Miss Notaro has 73-26 points reflecting her 10 won, 5 lost and 1 tie record and her total pinfall of 3,151.

ture Fox Valley Catholic Conference opponents. (The previous winners were Menasha St. Mary and Oshkosh Lourdes). Xavier has won twice over future conference foes (against Little Chute St. John and Lourdes, in their first meeting). Xavier has an 8-3 record.

The deciding edge in the game was supplied by Premontre's 6-foot-4 center, Bill Wesley. His height and shooting (he scored 23 points) were too much for the Hawks.

In the last quarter, a Dick Wiesner attempt was the only Xavier shot to find the range.

Floyd, 'Ingo' Set To Begin Training

Cohn Predicts March 13 Bout Will Gross About $5,000,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Ingemar Johansson is looking for a training camp in Florida and Floyd Patterson is ready to begin bearing down at his Spring Valley, N.Y., quarters now that the financial details for their March 13 fight in Miami Beach have been settled.

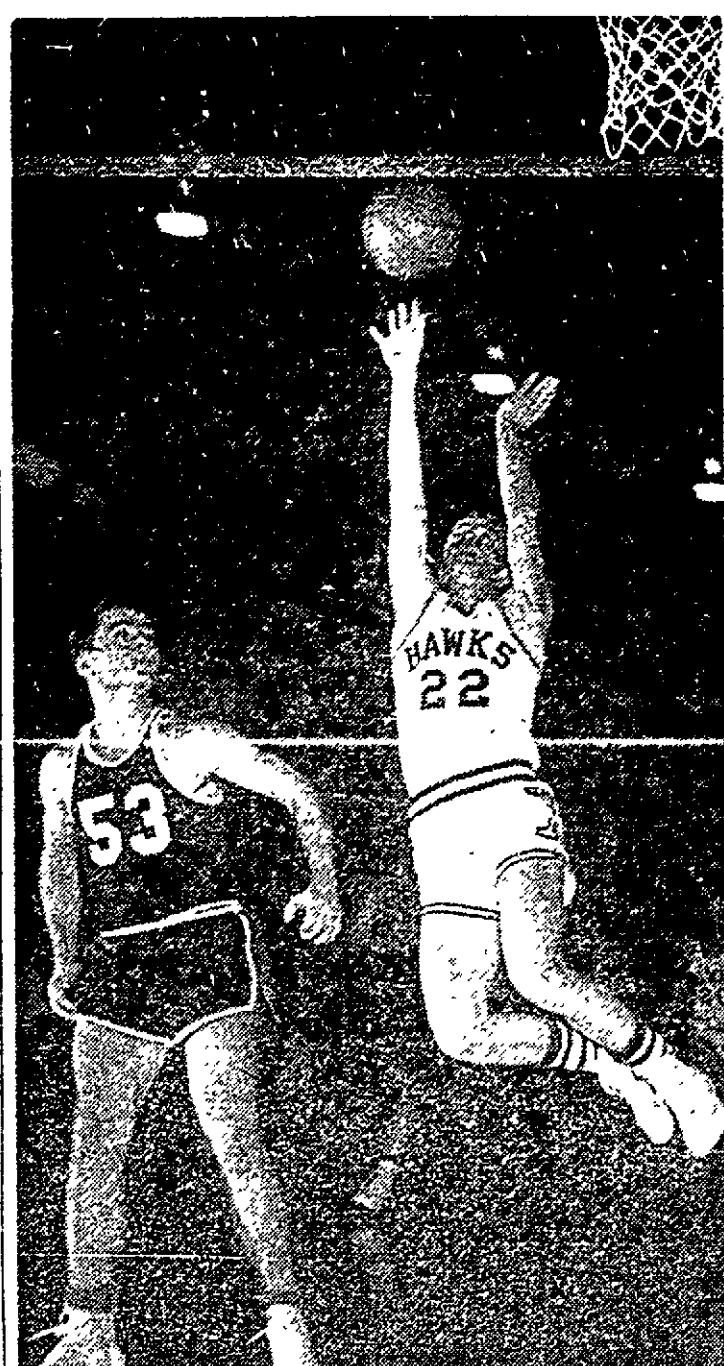

Johansson and Patterson signed an agreement Thursday to box for the third time in the Convention Hall at Miami Beach, having already entered into satisfactory agreements with Feature Sports, Inc., the promoters. Each signed for himself.

The agreements call for Patterson and Johansson each to get 25 per cent of the live fight gate. After the closed circuit TV firm takes its cut, Patterson will get 50 per cent, Johansson 35 per cent and Feature Sports 15 per cent of the ancillary rights to theater TV, movies, radio and so on.

Roy Cohn, a director of Feature Sports, predicted the fight would gross $5,000,000 from all sources.

Goalby Leads 'Crosby' Field By 1 Stroke

Takes String of 6 Sub-Par Holes Into Second Round

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Husky Bob Goalby swung into today's second round of the $50,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament with a one-stroke lead and a string of six straight sub-par holes.

The 29-year-old former University of Illinois football player fired five birdies and an eagle as the windup to his first round.

That brought him the lead with a six-under-par 68. Right behind him at 67 were defending champion Ken Venturi, Howie Johnson, Dave Hill and Bill Collins.

Deadlocked at 68 were Jack Burke, Jerry Barber, Dave Ragan, and at 69 were Dick Strahan, Sam Reynolds, Dow Finsterwald, Lionel Hebert, Al Balding, Walter Burkemo, Ted Kroil and Bob Rosburg.

Warm, sunny, windless weather provided the chance for low scores and no less than 39 fired sub-par first rounds.

Goalby, one-over-par through the first 12 holes, said, "I was just trying to shoot 70. I figured that was about the best I could do."

McMillan and Bolling To Get Competition From Five Veterans

Frank Signs Pact, Says This Is His First Chance to be With Winner

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A battle there and enjoy watching it," Tebbets said. "It's great for the club and great for baseball."

Asked about the possibility of a Logan-Martin combination, Tebbets grinned and said with a wink:

"Not a bad combination to have around, is it? Not bad at all."

Bolling, who is 29, is the solid second baseman the Braves have been seeking since Red Schoen-

Logan Speaks Up
The Braves introduced their highly-touted new second base combination at a gala luncheon featuring the showing of the World Series films Thursday. Shortstop Johnny Logan, a 10-year veteran with the club, promptly served notice he isn't giving up his job.

"I've been the Braves' shortstop for 10 years and as far as I'm concerned I'm still the shortstop," Logan said. "Mac's a great ball player, but I'm not giving up my job to him. He's going to have to beat me out and I promise I'll take an awful lot of beating."

McMillan, obtained from Cincinnati, vowed to "do as much as possible to win the job."

"I know John is going to do the same," McMillan said. "Actually, it will be up to the manager. However, if I can't be the shortstop I'll do whatever I can to help the club win the pennant. That's what I'm here for."

Bolling, who signed his 1961 contract before the luncheon, figured as the starting second baseman off his fine play with the Detroit Tigers. However, he can expect a fight from Billy Martin, throw by Wilt Chamberlain with a pickup from Cincinnati. If March 46 seconds remaining, Chamberlain regains the form that made him a standout with the New York Yankees a few years ago, the Hawks took game honors with Bolling could have trouble.

3 Others in Fight
Also in the thick of the fight for shortstop or second base berths are Milwaukee veterans Felix Mantilla and Mel Roach and the clincher coming on Tom He-Andre Rodgers, who was obtained from the San Francisco Giants.

Executive Vice President Birdie Tebbets is looking forward to the upcoming job fight in spring training.

Wildcat and Spartan '5s' TV Foes

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Northwestern and Michigan State, struggling in the Big Ten's second division, will be served on Saturday's regional basketball television menu.

Main interest, as far as the championship race is concerned, will be Iowa's test at Purdue. Minnesota (1-2) is at Ohio State (2-0) in the only other conference game.

Iowa, ranked No. 4 in the Associated Press national poll, has been beaten only once all season and has a 4-0 mark in Big Ten competition. Two of its players are among the top ten league scorers—Don Nelson with an 18-point average and Frank Allen with 16.5.

Also Unbeaten
Purdue also is undefeated in the Big Ten and will be seeking its third straight triumph. The Boiler-makers' Terry Dischinger leads conference scorers with 35 points a game, a record pace. He has a gashed finger on his right hand as the result of a chemistry lab mishap, and his scoring touch may suffer.

Northwestern takes a 0-3 mark to Michigan State, 1-3, for the TV encounter. The Spartans will have three rookies on the front line, a trio led by 6-7 Ted Williams and Dick Hall. Hall is averaging 17.2 points in conference action and has picked off 40 rebounds. The rangy Williams has a 10.2 average with 52 rebounds.

May Be Alternated
The other newcomer is Jack Lamers. He has a minor shoulder injury and may be alternated with sophomores Duane Kilbride and Harold Brookens.

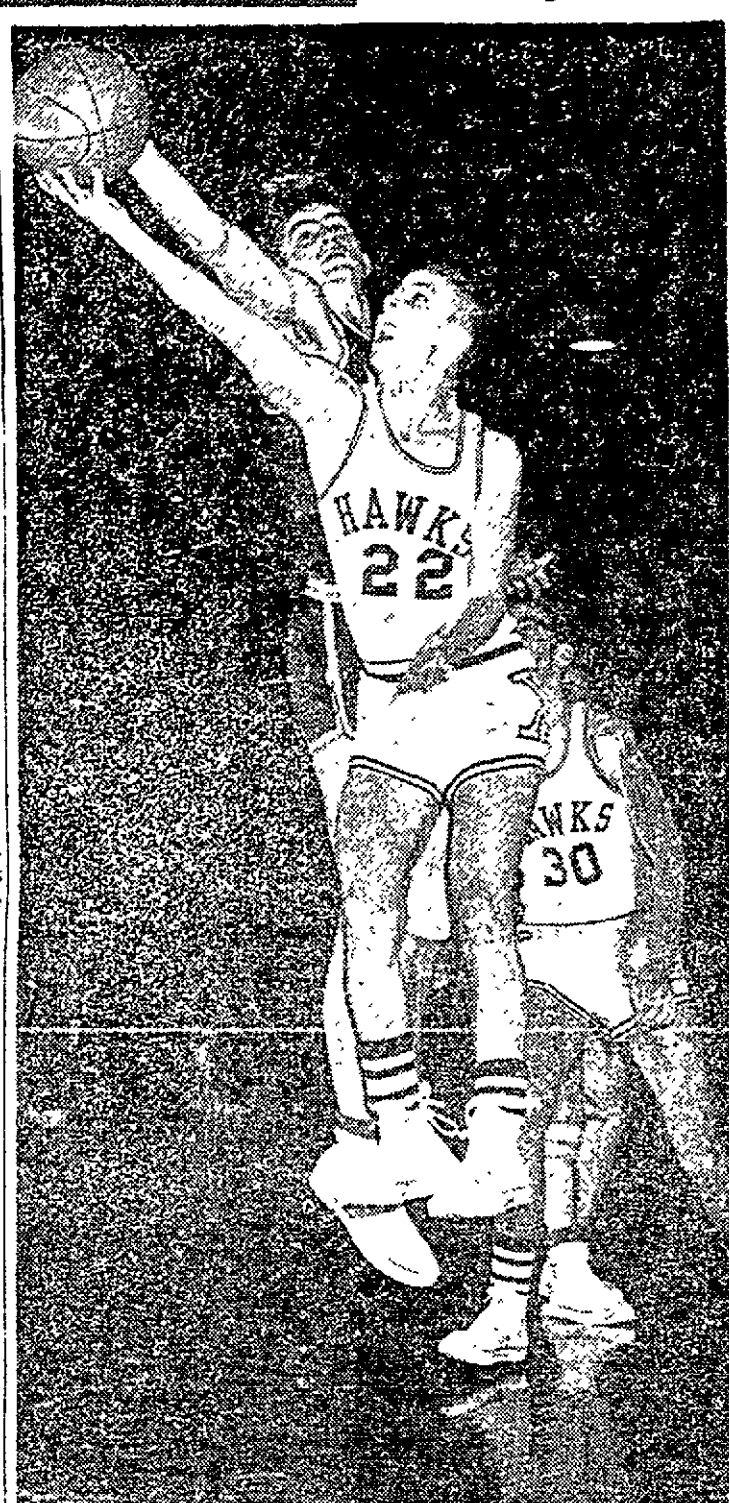

Ralph Wells, a junior, is Northwestern's top scorer with a 14 average but is credited with only seven rebounds in three Big Ten games. Senior Brad Snyder is 11.6 in scoring with 24 rebounds.

First-ranked Ohio State, the only major unbeaten team of the season, will be heavily favored over Minnesota. Jerry Lucas, the Buckeye's All-America, is second in league sharpshooting with a 32.5 in two games. He has a bad ankle, but may be used full-time if needed. Teammate Larry Siegfried also is among the top ten with 16 points a game.

Heading the Gophers are Dick Erickson with 10.6 and Bob Griggs with 10.3.

Packers Will Play Basketball Game in Little Chute Feb. 5

LITTLE CHUTE — A number of Green Bay Packers will meet a team of Fox Valley basketball stars in an exhibition game at the St. John High School gym Feb. 5.

The tilt will be sponsored by the St. John Athletic Association and proceeds will be for the promotion of grade and high school athletics.

Packers slated to appear include Bart Starr, Jim Temp, Lew Carpenter, Gary Knafele, Fred Thurston, Henry Jordan, Jess Whittenton, Tom Bettis and Bob Skoronski.

In addition, Norb Hecker of the coaching staff will be on the squad. It is reported that former Packer Vito "Babe" Parilli will also appear.

The roster of valley players is now being formed.

Vince Lauds Unitas Lombardi's Packers Have Played At a .675 Overall Winning Rate

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Football's finally over. No pro game to watch this weekend but the 1960 schedule was extra heavy.

The Packers had a personal interest in 20 games—six nonleague games, 12 league games, one championship playoff game, and one Pro Bowl game in which the Packers had three coaches and eight players.

Coach-GM Vince Lombardi, and out of Green Bay this week, rolled up 15 victories in those 20 contests—that's a .750 percentage. The Bays lost one each to the Eagles (the playoff) and Rams, Lions, Bears and Colts in league action.

37 Games
For his two seasons in Green Bay, Lombardi coached the Packers in 37 games and the Bays won 23 of them. Vince had the same staff of aides for the two seasons—Phil Bengtson, who handled the over-all defense; Norb Hecker, defense backfield; "Red" Cochran, offense backfield; and Bill Austin, offense line.

Lombardi paid special tribute to rolled to a 10-2 record, a 4-2 in 1959 and 6-0 in '60. In league play, as Wisconsin's athlete of the year the Lombardis came up with 7-5 in '59, with a four-game winning streak at the end, and 8-5 in '60, the fifth loss being in the title battle.

The record for two seasons now is 25-12, a percentage of .675—a far cry from the late lamented 11-games, one year famine.

Lombardi's latest conquest, the one Pro Bowl game in which the Packers had three coaches and eight players.

How much to run this Volkswagen Truck?

(2¢ per mile? 2.5¢ per mile? 6¢ per mile?)

We know one VW Truck owner who figures his operating costs at 1.8¢ a mile. Another figures 6.6¢ a mile. Both are right. Costs vary with use, driving habits and accounting methods.

That's why we make no claims of "up to" a certain number of miles per gallon, or "as low as" a certain cost per mile. We prefer merely to cite experiences of VW Truck owners. One figure we think is fair is the 4.5¢ per mile, including gas, oil, repairs, tires, and tubes, for 17 VW Trucks doing door-to-door delivery in the hilly Seattle area.

Cost figures supplied by several Volkswagen owners are available in our 60-page booklet, "The Owner's Viewpoint."

dienst was stricken with tuberculosis after the 1958 World Series. He talked over his contract with General Manager John McHale en route to the luncheon and quickly agreed to terms.

McHale jokingly remarked in announcing the signing of Bolling that he "just happened to have a contract and pen." The slick-fielding veteran became the seventh member of the Braves in the fold. Although he hit only .254 for the Tigers last season, Bolling is noted for his ability in the clutch.

Center fielder Billy Bruton, who was given up by the Braves in the Bolling deal, was honored by the Milwaukee baseball writers for his outstanding contribution to the ball club and youth groups in Wisconsin. He received a desk set and said he plans to remain a Milwaukee resident in the off season.

McHale was reminded of what the Braves had to give up to get McMillan and Bolling, a couple of slender performers.

"It's too bad we didn't buy both by the pound," he said in jest.

Bolling said he was "very happy and pleased to come to a ball club like this."

"It's my first chance to be with a winner," he declared. "I hope I can do my part to win a pennant."

Premontre '5' Tops Hawks

Xavier usually only was able to get off one shot as Wesley grabbed the rebounds. Xavier went scoreless the last five minutes.

The score was tied five times, and the lead changed hands nine times.

The Hawks led going into the final eight minutes, 53-56. Wesley's shot made it 59-58. Two free throws by Chuck Luck upped the Xavier edge to 61-58. Then three straight charity tosses from the cool Wesley tied the score, 61-61.

Wesley soon shot back with a lay-up and the visitors took a two-point advantage. Xavier's "Kip" Whittinger scored a brace of charity tosses, and the score was tied, 63-63, with 5:20 remaining.

A tremendous driving lay-up by Wiesner put the Hawks ahead. He was called for charging and Premontre's Bill Ehlinger had a chance to tie the score. The first was good, the second missed and Xavier led by a slim 65-64.

Premontre racked up the last 13 points of the game. Xavier pressed for shots, the Cadets grabbed the rebounds, drove downcourt and dropped in the points.

A long two-handed set by Mike O'Brien gave the Cadets 66-65 lead and they stayed ahead. Mike McCarey sparked the Cadets in the remaining minutes getting eight points.

With 1:53 remaining, Coach Gene Clark substituted a new team to press the Cadets, but the margin was already 75-65.

Whittinger hit on the first shot of the game, and the Xavier lead soon stretched to 8-2.

The Cadets rallied to tie, 8-8, on baskets by O'Brien, Ehlinger and Wesley. Wesley's three straight free throws gave Premontre an 11-8 advantage.

Lueck, who displayed some fine shooting from the corners, hit a basket, but Ehlinger's lay-up matched it.

The second period was all Xavier's as the Hawks drove to a 40-35 halftime lead. Lueck scored 7, Whittinger and Weisner 6, Paul Zeegers 4. Xavier hit a hot streak near the end of the period, hitting on seven straight shots plus adding two free throws.

Premontre had the benefit of five double-figure scorers. Backing up Wesley were McCarey, with 17 points; Ehlinger, 14; Cibus, 11; and O'Brien, 10.

Whittinger topped Xavier notching six baskets and six free throws. Wiesner scored 17, and Lueck totaled 13. One other Hawk hit in the double figures — Paul Zeegers, with 10.

Roosevelt Triumphs

KAUKAUNA — Roosevelt thwarted a late Kaukauna bid for its first freshman victory of the season and pulled out a 41-39 decision here Thursday.

With about 20 seconds left in the game and the score tied at 39-all, Jim Bertschy hit a jump shot for the winning margin.

Kaukauna had an opportunity to tie it when there was a one and one-free throw situation with time already out on the clock, but Dick Hurst's first attempt failed.

The frosh Ghosts led in the early stages of the game, but Roosevelt went ahead, 18-15, at the half.

Tim Versteegen of the Ghosts was the high scorer of the game with 17 points. Bertschy had 10 for Roosevelt.

Premontre '5' Tops Hawks

Xavier usually only was able to get off one shot as Wesley grabbed the rebounds. Xavier went scoreless the last five minutes.

The score was tied five times, and the lead changed hands nine times.

The Hawks led going into the final eight minutes, 53-56. Wesley's shot made it 59-58. Two free throws by Chuck Luck upped the Xavier edge to 61-58. Then three straight charity tosses from the cool Wesley tied the score, 61-61.

Wesley soon shot back with a lay-up and the visitors took a two-point advantage. Xavier's "Kip" Whittinger scored a brace of charity tosses, and the score was tied, 63-63, with 5:20 remaining.

A tremendous driving lay-up by Wiesner put the Hawks ahead. He was called for charging and Premontre's Bill Ehlinger had a chance to tie the score. The first was good, the second missed and Xavier led by a slim 65-64.

Premontre racked up the last 13 points of the game. Xavier pressed for shots, the Cadets grabbed the rebounds, drove downcourt and dropped in the points.

A long two-handed set by Mike O'Brien gave the Cadets 66-65 lead and they stayed ahead. Mike McCarey sparked the Cadets in the remaining minutes getting eight points.

With 1:53 remaining, Coach Gene Clark substituted a new team to press the Cadets, but the margin was already 75-65.

Whittinger hit on the first shot of the game, and the Xavier lead soon stretched to 8-2.

The Cadets rallied to tie, 8-8, on baskets by O'Brien, Ehlinger and Wesley. Wesley's three straight free throws gave Premontre an 11-8 advantage.

Lueck, who displayed some fine shooting from the corners, hit a basket, but Ehlinger's lay-up matched it.

The second period was all Xavier's as the Hawks drove to a 40-35 halftime lead. Lueck scored 7, Whittinger and Weisner 6, Paul Zeegers 4. Xavier hit a hot streak near the end of the period, hitting on seven straight shots plus adding two free throws.

Premontre had the benefit of five double-figure scorers. Backing up Wesley were McCarey, with 17 points; Ehlinger, 14; Cibus, 11; and O'Brien, 10.

Whittinger topped Xavier notching six baskets and six free throws. Wiesner scored 17, and Lueck totaled 13. One other Hawk hit in the double figures — Paul Zeegers, with 10.

Pains in the knee have been a plastered all over the Dugout pain in the neck during the past year for Kimberly's athletic Peor, third baseman in the area he enboom brothers.

Last summer, Gene Peerenboom tore knee ligaments in the first game of the Fox River Valley Baseball League season. A member of the Little Chute-Kimberly club, he missed the entire campaign.

Younger brother Tom hurt a knee during last fall's Kimberly High football season. He played the first seven games of the current basketball campaign with the Papermaker varsity, — No. 9 in the state at present — leading the club in scoring several times.

Soreness became worse and further tests indicated that an operation was necessary.

The latest word is that there won't be an operation. But the 6-0 senior, top reserve on last year's M-E champions, is probably out for several more weeks. The affliction is diagnosed as a sprained knee, with hemorrhaging.

"Who's place is this, Eddie Mathews' or Elmer Collar's?" asked Milwaukee Braves shortstop Johnny Logan late last week after looking around the interior of Collar's Dugout, Horionville.

Pictures of Mathews, who has become a friend of Collar's, are

Sugar's Bout With Fuller Is Postponed

Delay Training
For Robinson

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, who has a long record of title fight postponements, is getting another one.

Robinson's 15-round bout here with NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer, scheduled for Feb. 25, was re-set Thursday for March 4.

Promoters Jack Doyle and Mel Greb said Robinson was unable to get started with his training because of two court actions in the East.

In recent weeks Robinson has been involved in a paternity suit brought by a New York woman. Thursday he won a federal court decision over Nicholas Troilo, who sued Sugar Ray for $75,000, charging he reneged on an agreement to fight Fullmer in 1956 under Troilo's promotion.

Robinson is scheduled to fly from New York to Los Angeles Saturday, then go to his training camp at San Jacinto, where he worked for his Dec. 3 bout with Fullmer. That one ended in a draw.

Baltimore farmhands Chuck Symeon and Chuck Oertel have been obtained by class AAA Rochester from Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League. Pitcher Symeon starred for the 1960 Fox Cities Foxes. Outfielder Oertel was the pint-sized hero of several Appleton Papermaker teams in the early 1950s.

Rockets Gain Tie For Hockey Lead

The Rockets (2-0-1) moved into a first place tie with the Red Eagles (2-0-1) in the Appleton Recreation Department's Major Hockey League Thursday by beating Pond's 5-2. Clemens Herschel scored two goals and Pete Furbinger, Will Mack and Colin Frykman one apiece for the Rockets. Bill Plank and Barry Deleucw tallied for Pond's.

Countryside (0-2-1) tied the Red Eagles (2-0-1) by a 3-3 score. Joe Murray collected two goals and Lee Rasmussen one to lead Countryside. Fred Ebert, Ady Ebbon and Bob Elnick scored for the Red Eagles.

Fund Drive to Fight Polio Reaches $766

Youth Center Group Will Conduct Tour of City to Raise Total

KAUKAUNA — Three phases of the annual polio drive have been completed with a total of $766.88 collected and two more phases scheduled this weekend.

The toll bridge, conducted by Legion members under the direction of Karl Freier, resulted in collection of $656.88. Workers included Richard Rose, Richard A. Peters, William Schmitz, David Specht, John Huss, William Woods, Arthur Schmidt, Alfred Marzahl, Robert Jirikowic, Dean Ball, Jerry Huss, Arthur Kromer Jr., Stanley Lizon, Robert Grissman, Eugene Vandersteen and Freier.

The rainbow crutch sale, conducted by Jaycees and Jayceettes, resulted in $70. Eugene MacLaughlin was general chairman. A similar sale is being conducted today. The VFW sponsored teenage dance resulted in $40 for the polio fund.

Sunday Effort

Major part of the campaign will be held Sunday under the direction of the Elk Ladies when students from the Youth Center, under the direction of Karen Lindemuth and Hope Goetzman, make the house-to-house canvass. About 150 students will take part under the direction of block captains. Elk ladies will drive students to their districts, pick them up at the conclusion of the effort and serve hot chocolate and doughnuts at the Elks Club. Adult supervisors of the Youth Center, Fred Barribeau and Francis DeBruin, will assist at the Elk clubrooms. Mrs. Oscar Kunz is general chairman.

Golden Agers to Discuss Party At Green Bay

KAUKAUNA — Final reservations for the party at the WBAV auditorium, Green Bay, will be accepted at a meeting of the Golden Age Club at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Youth Center.

One bus load has signed for the trip and a second will be added if necessary. Cards will be play-levs and a social hour held after the business session.

Members of the serving committee will be Mrs. Rose Kloebe, Mrs. Meta Kuhn and Mrs. John Kobussen.

'Rip' Collins Named Speaker For Annual Meeting of KAC

KAUKAUNA — James "Rip" Collins, one of the new coaches of the Chicago Cubs and a 27-year veteran of many baseball campaigns will be speaker for the annual Kaukauna Athletic Club meeting at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 28 at the VFW Hall.

Collins starred in the 1931 and 1934 World Series as a slugging

'Rip' Collins

Ott with 35 home runs for the Chicago Cubs and a .615 slugging percentage, the only switch hitter ever to lead the National League in these departments.

Further Background

After a long term with the Cardinals, Rip played for the Chicago Cubs in 1937 and '38, helping them to the championship in 1938. His career total includes three World Series and four All-Star games.

He started playing professional ball when he was 18, has been named to every All-Star team in every league in which he has played and in 1940 was named Minor League player of the year, even though 40 years old.

As a player-manager at Albany, New York, in 1944, he batted .386. Six years later he finished his active playing career and finished a lifetime batting .328.

Four times during his National League stay, Rip spoiled no-hit bids by opposing pitchers.

During 10 years as manager in the minor leagues, his teams finished in the first division on seven occasions, winning three play-first baseman for the fabulous off championships.

St. Louis Cardinal Gas House Gang. He compiled a batting average of .300 during both White Sox, well known to Kau-pennant years. Collins collected kauna baseball fans. ## By-Laws Will be Reviewed by Altar Society KAUKAUNA — A discussion on revision of the by-laws, bringing them up to date, will highlight a meeting of St. Mary Altar Society at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the school auditorium.

A display of Catholic literature including books, magazines and pamphlets will be set up by Mrs. Ambrose Maue, chairman of the library and literature committee.

A two-third vote of members is needed for revising by-laws. Cards will be played and a social hour, under the direction of Mrs. Ben Bloy, held after the session. Other on the social committee are Mrs. Richard Borree, Mrs. Donald Bisek, Mrs. Joseph Biehler, Mrs. Lester Brenzel, Mrs. Mike Buchinger Sr., Mrs. Mike Buchinger Jr., Mrs. Steve Bryschell, Mrs. Arthur Butters and Mrs. Dominic Bordini.

The rainbow crutch sale, conducted by Jaycees and Jayceettes, resulted in $70. Eugene MacLaughlin was general chairman. A similar sale is being conducted today. The VFW sponsored teenage dance resulted in $40 for the polio fund.

Police Probe $200 Burglary

New Holstein Oil Company Reports Theft of Cash

NEW HOLSTEIN — Police are continuing their investigation of a break-in at the Depies Oil Co. office believed to have occurred early Thursday morning, Police Chief Ted Pagel Sr. said.

More than $200 was taken from a cash register and a small portable safe. Pagel said the thieves gained entry by prying open an overhead door at the truck storage garage. Two interior doors also were pried open.

The cash door was pried open and the small safe was hammered open.

It was one of two break-ins in the area. The Cooperative Service Oil Co. at Kiel also was burglarized Wednesday night.

Appleton Youth Fined $75 for Two Violations

KIMBERLY — Two motorists pleaded guilty of traffic violations when arraigned before Anton Jansen, acting justice of the peace for Kimberly, Wednesday night and a signed stipulation of guilt and bond was accepted from a third driver.

John R. Hall, 19, 1207 N. Owaisa St., Appleton, pleaded guilty of operating a vehicle without a driver's license for which he was fined $50 and of falsifying another person's driver's license for which he paid $25.

Warren G. Lessor, 19, 524 Grand Ave., Little Chute, paid $10 after pleading guilty of speeding. Richard J. Schouten, 20, 1524 Bartell Drive, Appleton, posted $15 bond for speeding.

188-493 Set Pace in Young Fellows Loop

LITTLE CHUTE — Mark Hietpas rolled games of 188, 182 and 493 results to lead the Young Fellows League at Recreation Alley.

The Firebugs and AAA are tied for first place with records of 23 wins and 13 losses. Other high counts included a 181 by Clayton Baumgart and 171 by Jerry Verbeten.

Circulation at Library in '60 Hits New High

Librarian Reports 105,775 Volumes are Checked Out in Year

KAUKAUNA — An all time high in use of library facilities was reported for 1960 in the annual report released by Roderick MacDonald, librarian, with 105,775 listed as the circulation.

Adults accounted for 45,177 of the total while 60,598 books were taken out by youngsters. Registered borrowers during the year numbered 4,502 of which 2,329 were adults and 1,973 were children. Of this total, 3,364 were city residents and 1,138 lived in outlying areas.

The library currently has 18,213 volumes, 2,318 of which were added during the year. There are 115 magazines and eight newspapers available to patrons with 4,550 magazines loaned during the year.

Reading Habits

The report shows adults read 17,756 non-fiction volumes during the year and 24,421 fiction books. Adults also checked out 4,550 pamphlets. The children checked out 13,986 non-fiction and 46,812 fiction volumes. Youngsters made use of 598 pamphlets.

Adult circulation increased 6.67 over 1959 while juvenile circulation increased 15.03 over the previous year. Adult volumes available number 11,230 while there are 6,983 volumes suitable for children.

During the year the library placed books in the Golden Age clubrooms and loaned packets of books to Holy Cross, St. Mary, Nicolet, Trinity and rural schools. The library also furnished 157 book requests through the inter-library loaning service which permits residents to borrow from out-of-city libraries.

To Your Good Health

Parents of Mentally Retarded Child Have Difficult Problem

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. fact that makes your case different — your little boy's mental retardation is the hardest my husband tardation. They have never been and I have ever had to deal confronted with the facts that you have had to weigh.

Where lies the most happiness for a retarded child? Why, in an environment in which he can live and be active at his own rate, and not forever overshadowed by people who can do what he can't.

What of such a child as he grows, not up, but older? Who will care for him when his parents are gone? Must his brothers and sisters sacrifice their lives to care for him? Is that fair?

When people begin to consider these questions, their criticism melts away. And might I add this fact, which has been a great blessing to many mothers like you, when they realized it: You do not abandon a child when you send him away to school — either to your little boy's special school, or a boarding school, or any school. You can visit him there; he can, generally, have visits at home. You keep on loving him all the ways, and he keeps on loving you, and while there is always a sadness that he is not normal, the warmth of love remains, and neither heart breaks, yours or his.

Sluggish Liver

"Dear Dr. Molner: When a per-son has a sluggish liver, what should be avoided? — Mrs. H.L.L."

You may have some difficulty in digesting fats except in mod-erate quantities, and trouble with cabbage, Brussels sprouts, heavily seasoned foods, etc.

Ignorant People

NOTE TO MRS. M.A.H.: Having one ovary removed at your age, in the 20's, does not mean that it will go much harder at the change of life. The people who told you that simply did not know what they were talking about.

Hospital Fund Drive Hits $225,000 Mark

Chairman Reports Effort Results in Reducing Reserve Transfer

KAUKAUNA — E. H. Jennings, chairman of the fund raising committee for the addition to the Kaukauna Community Hospital, announced the goal of $225,000 had been reached and the $75,000 hospital reserve to be added was cut back to $68,907 due to the generous response.

Jennings reported, on Jan. 4 a release showed the hospital drive library loaning service which permits residents to borrow from out-of-city libraries.

Number Donating

A total of 250 individuals, industries and organizations contributed to the drive with many contributions still coming in, according to Jennings. These will help reduce the total required from hospital reserves still more, indicated the chairman.

A breakdown shows $118,780 received from 17 industries whereas the original estimate listed $100,000 from industry; 17 doctors contributed $16,335 to the hospital; $6,335 more than the original estimate; 54 businesses contributed $6,120 or $2,120 more than the original estimate; 32 organizations contributed $7,611 or $611 over the estimate; 130 individuals contributed $8,057 or $4,057 over the original estimate and $68,907 was taken from hospital reserves.

Jennings attributed the success of the drive to the administration, staff, doctors and governing board of directors at the hospital, terming the drive as "a splendid endorsement from the entire community."

Don't Want Presidency

Most People Would Rather be Themselves

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The job has don't a big salary, a nice pension, and: "You have to try to please too you get to live rent-free in a fine many people. Even then half of old house plentifully staffed with them wind up hating you."

Old Too Soon

"It makes you old too soon. Ever notice how much older a president looks after he's been in office a few years?"

"Being president just doesn't sound like it would be much fun. You spend too much time holding conferences or going to public functions. Who wants that kind of a life? It would bore me."

"You might have to decide to send the country to war. If I had a worry like that on my mind, I'd never sleep at night."

"A president isn't really free. He's a kind of a prisoner in a way. He has to be guarded all day—the presidency of the United States against crackpots. That would give me the willies."

The idea of living in the White House also appalls many ordinary American men—appealing may seem to themselves. "Why couldn't it have happened to me?" wives.

"It's too big," said one. "It'd be like living in a railroad terminal. It wouldn't seem like home. And who'd want all those servants standing around listening when your wife bawled you out? In when your wife bawled you out? his own shoes than Kennedy's."

Why doesn't the average American want his country's top political job, often hailed as the world's most powerful post? Here are typical answers from a sample survey:

"Too much responsibility."

"You have to make too many important decisions. The way it is now I can let my wife make the decisions. She enjoys it. I don't want to make them."

70 Per Cent Rise Seen in UW Enrollment

43,000 Students May Attend School by 1975, Study Shows

The University of Wisconsin's enrollment is expected to be at least 70 per cent higher by 1970 than the present record. And, by 1975, UW statisticians say the number of students could reach 43,000 at Madison.

These figures were included in a new long-range day enrollment projection.

The Madison campus started the past decade with 15,655 students. As the post-World War II bulge subsided, the total dropped to 13,148 in 1953. But by 1960, the enrollment had topped even the previous high of 18,693.

18,811 enrollment had topped even the previous high of 18,693.

"Not only has there been an increase in births, signifying a larger potential group from which the colleges might draw greater numbers of students, but also a larger proportion of the post high school population is seeking additional formal education," explains L. Joseph Lins, coordinator of institutional studies at the university.

Figures Given

The increasing per cent of college age youth attending college on campus and the college age is one of the factors that makes projecting difficult. Because of this, the new report includes minimum, intermediate and maximum figures.

The projections for the Madison campus in 1970, are: minimum, 31,500; intermediate, 32,800; and maximum, 34,900. By 1975, these totals could increase to 36,500, 39,100 and 43,100.

At the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, where the present enrollment is 5,633, the 1970 projections rounded to the nearest hundreds are: minimum 11,100, intermediate 11,900, and maximum 12,600. These figures could be 13,500, 15,200 and 17,000 five years later.

"The projections are based upon the births in the State of Wisconsin, estimated survival of persons born to college age, differences in estimated survival and actual college age population, the changing ratio between the historical enrollment on the Madison campus and the college age pool by age and assumptions of which might affect future enrollment," the new report includes ment."

Footnotes

Solutions have now been found for some of the vexatious problems in maintaining a shoe wardrobe. One is a leather finish that reduces surface creasing and scuff. You know what a plus that is, if you have ever "ruined" new shoes by accidentally nicking the toes.

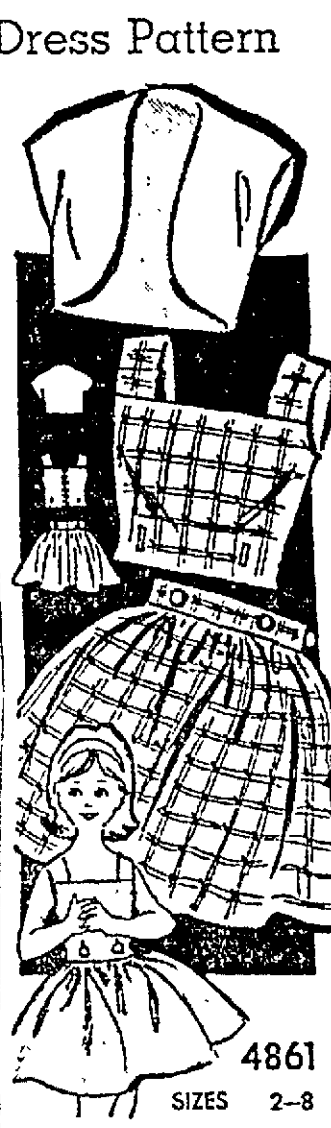

The process in no way affects appearance. The leather retains all the softness and other quality features which have made it a fashion favorite. But don't rush out and try to buy a pair of shoes with this durable - soft finish. Your Problems
Mother of 5 Already Has Full Time Job, Ann Tells Mr. Legree

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I have been married 15 years. We have five children, the oldest is 14, the youngest 6. They are in school all day and are no trouble to her. I think my wife should be able to get out of bed a little earlier, straighten up the house, get the kids off to school and then go to work downtown. We could sure use the extra money. We have many friends who manage this way and they have new cars, boats and luxuries that we'll never be able to afford on my salary.
My wife has a washing machine and a vacuum cleaner, still she claims she's bushed from the housework and laundry. I say the cost of living is so high these days it takes two pay checks if people are going to enjoy any extras. Please tell my wife to stop making excuses and to go get herself some work.—Disgusted
Dear Disgusted: A woman who has five young children doesn't need to make excuses—she's got work, and plenty of it—at home.
So your wife has a washing machine and a vacuum sweeper—big deal. How would you like to take on another full-time job? Well, that's exactly what you're asking her to do. Quit trying to get the old mare to pull a double load and give her a hand with her present duties. She can probably use it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 18 and I've been going steady with a girl who will be 17 next month. She's been nagging me to get married but I feel I'm too young to take on the responsibilities of a husband. I have another four months before high school graduation and it would be a crime to quit now to get married. Some guys in school got married but the heat was too much and they dropped out.
This girl's parents are getting pretty huffy because of the girl's condition—if you know what I mean. My folks say it's up to me. Please tell me—what's the score?—Dick
Dear Dick: Yeah—I know exactly what you mean—and this is a fine time to be asking the score.
No fellow can be forced into a marriage regardless of the circumstances. You have an obligation, however, to take care of the girl and support the baby, and there are laws to see that you do.
I urge you to stay in school and get your diploma whether you marry or not. It looks as if you're going to have some financial responsibilities starting soon, and a fellow who is not a high school graduate will find mighty slim pickings in the job market.

live in a medium-sized city. A man here who gets into all sorts of trouble with the law has the same name as my husband. It is a terrible embarrassment to us whenever his name appears in the paper, which is often. He has been arrested for drunken driving, fighting in taverns and petty larceny.
The paper prints his name and address but we feel they should also say "Not the John Jones who is employed at the —X Company." The paper refuses to do this. Can we insist on grounds that this other man is ruining our reputation?—Innocent Victims
Dear Victims: The newspaper should make the proper distinction by printing the man's address. A newspaper can't identify individuals by stating who he is not.

HOW TO REPAY CLERGYMAN
Our clergyman has given me many hours of his time and I feel indebted. He has helped me spiritually and mentally and I will be forever grateful to him for what he has already done to get me rehabilitated. I am certain that he prevented a total crack-up. He will probably continue to help me for a few more weeks. What can I do to repay him? Should I send him a gift of some kind?
Louise Davis Answers:
Your clergyman, like all others, is a dedicated man and by helping you, he has been helping his flock. I am certain that he expects nothing from you except your recovery and will keep working with you as long as you need him. I suggest that toward the end or even shortly afterwards that you write him a friendly note of thanks and appreciation and with it enclose a check, made out to the clergyman, suggesting that he use it any way that he sees fit. The money would be the same as a stipend given to the clergy for such things as baptisms, marriage and funeral rites. Think how grateful he will be when he knows that you have recovered. That will be thanks in itself.
WATCH YOUR STEPS
When a boy and a girl visit friends in an upstairs apartment and have no other access than a narrow outside stairway, who ascends first?
Louise Davis Answers:
The girl ascends first and descends last. The reason for this

Designer's Sketches Reveal Jackie's Inaugural Attire

At Right is a sketch of the floor length cape of Mrs. Kennedy's costume for tonight's inaugural ball. It is made of white silk peau d'ange and completely veiled in silk triple chiffon. The cape is fastened with twin embroidered buttons under the ring collar. The shape is an arch from shoulder to hem, with soft waves on the back.

This is a sketch of the dress for Mrs. John F. Kennedy's inaugural ball costume as designed by Bergdorf Goodman Salon. It is described as a full length sheath of white silk peau d'ange veiled with white silk chiffon. The hip length bodice is embroidered in silver and brilliants. It is covered by a transparent over-bodice of white silk chiffon. The back of the bodice is similar to the front.

Our Children Choose Responsible Girl To Sit With Youngsters

BY ANGELO PATRI
The sitter has become an essential member of the modern family. Most people have accepted the fact that a mother of young children must have time out from a chance to live, to rest from the constant care and labor that her husband and family depend on. Otherwise she will certainly suffer in health and efficiency. Therefore the sitter.

This helpful person must be selected with the greatest care. Is she a responsible person who takes this duty seriously, will be on time to keep her engagement, will faithfully fulfill her obligations? Is she in good physical and mental health and above all, does she like children? Can she furnish acceptable references from three trustworthy people?

Need Answers
The safety and welfare of helpless children are dependent upon the correct answers to these questions. The schools, the churches, the Y's, can usually speak for the right people.

The sitter should be regularly engaged so that the children become accustomed to her and she to them. Children are likely to be afraid of strangers, some will not eat nor perform their usual routine health habits for one. It is the better part of good sense to make the children acquainted beforehand so that both sides of the situation are made clear. This getting acquainted period allows the sitter to learn the ways of the household, where the telephone, bathroom, refrigerator are; how the children are fed and how their bedtime is routine as to washing, prayers, stories, lights and any special service for any one child. By the telephone is the typed list of calls for the doctor, parents, relatives, police, etc.

Has Rights
The sitter has rights as well as duties and these should be strictly understood and observed. A comfortable chair and lights, food she can enjoy, books and papers

Sheinwold Girl Finds Partner Too Critical

"My fiancé is very critical of the way I play bridge," a reader complains. "Sometimes he bawls me out in the middle of a hand, even though I may be quite right. Here's a hand that caused trouble the other night:

"I was declarer, and won the first trick with the ace of diamonds. I drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, then attacked clubs.

"They didn't take the first club, but East did take the second club, and returned a club for his partner to ruff. That's when Paul, my fiancé, exploded. He gave me a long lecture on counting trumps, and I never did get the chance to prove that I had made the right play.

"What can I do to cure him of this distressing habit?"
Easy Cure
The cure is easy, but first let's look at the hand to see who was right.
It's clear that the young lady 7 3 2, H-Q 6 2, D-K Q J 8 3, C- is perfectly right: She made the 8 3. What do you say?
Correct play, and I assume she made her game contract.
The defense can get a club, a ruff, and one diamond trick, but South can lead a trump to al point. You can afford to invite dummy's ten in order to discard game.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one no trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S- 8 3. What do you say?
Answer: Bid two no trump. You only have eight points in high cards but your strong five-card suit is worth at least one additional point. You can afford to invite dummy's ten in order to discard game.

Broadway Career For Miss Wisconsin

BY JEAN OTTO
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Miss Karen Marie Fahrenbach, the current Miss Wisconsin, has set a lofty goal for herself. Wearing the crown which denotes her position, Miss Fahrenbach confided that she hopes to become a musical comedy actress on Broadway.

The slender, brown haired young woman smiled and explained, "I know I'm dreaming, but that's what I really want." Miss Fahrenbach and her mother were guests at Geenen's Department Store Thursday. The appearance was in line with Miss Fahrenbach's duties as a representative of a line of women's clothing.

Had to Refuse
Miss Fahrenbach, a native of Racine, might be fulfilling her ambition right now were it not for her commitment as Miss Wisconsin. Several months ago she was approached by Ted Hammerstein to do a role in Flower Drum Song. "They really wanted an Oriental, and they usually don't hire people out of Chicago, but they wanted someone tall, and they thought I could do it. Of course, I had to turn it down."

Miss Wisconsin is 21 and will be a senior at the University of Wisconsin. She is majoring in speech and has a minor in television. During her participation in the Miss America pageant, she performed a ballet dance consisting of two classical variations from Sleeping Beauty. During her reign she visits stores which sell her sponsor's line and sells it herself.

Talks to Girls
Another project has been undertaken by Miss Fahrenbach which has gained wide recognition and may be adopted nationally. Miss Wisconsin has gone into junior and senior high schools to talk on style, current fashion trends, grooming, manners and makeup. These speeches are followed by a period of questioning which usually involves the girls' personal problems. They discuss such things as going steady, getting married, careers and their families.

"These are the times I like two hearts on the good clubs. South's line of play should gladden the heart of any young man. The point is that South goes down if she draws three rounds of trumps. East can then refuse the first two clubs, and the suit never comes in. Declarer loses one club, one diamond, and two hearts.
Any girl clever enough to play the hand so well should see the cure for herself: Carry the beast. If that doesn't cure him, nothing will.

Best, she said. "These girls really have problems and they're not afraid to talk about them. I try to help when I can, or at least tell them where they can find the answers."

Sincerity Important
Fashion and beauty are part of Miss Fahrenbach's job as the state representative. The most important single attribute of an attractive woman, she says, is sincerity. "It's an inner glow which comes from a woman who rings true as a person, a beauty of the spirit. A pretty face is nice to look at when you meet someone, but if that's all there is, it soon loses its appeal. Beautiful features won't hide an empty head for long."

Basic Dresses
"A woman doesn't need many clothes to look nice," she added. A few basic things that can be dressed up or down as the occasion demands are best. I think one thing that's needed is for women to dress and act like women. Slacks are in poor taste when shopping, so are sloppy shoes and haircuts that look like a man's. Women wish to be treated with courtesy and respect, but they forget that it's difficult for a man to be courteous with a woman who acts and dresses like another man.

Women should dress for the occasion," she concluded. That's a good rule anytime."

Miss Fahrenbach plans to return to school at the end of her reign. She would like to study ballet in Europe, and, of course, realize her dream of a Broadway career. Eventually, she hopes to marry, "but that's a long, long way off."

When questioned on ways she thought the average woman could improve her appearance, Miss Fahrenbach replied that neatness and cleanliness were the most important part of being well dressed.

A new bed pillow made of multi-celled foam will make your sleep more restful. Dozens of internal air pockets, which increase the pillow's "breathing" action, and allow air to circulate freely, provide cool support without "fight-back."

Perseverance Does the Trick
If you're wondering what's wrong with your skin, it may be that all you need is renewed and vigorous faith in something you learned at your mother's washbasin: wash your face! Yes, we know you do wash it, but do it more often—three times a day. And stimulate circulation while you clear your complexion by using a face brush or rough terry wash cloth, well-lathered and applied with an untimed touch. A towel tucked around your neckline will solve the dripping suds-and-water problem and let you do a really bold cleansing job on both face and neck. If you use a terry cloth for the complexion sudsing, use a fresh one for the rinsing—and don't stop until your face "squeaks."

Violinist Has Crush On Women

BY JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—By the time they're 70 a lot of men have achieved a sort of god-natured tolerance for women.

But Mischa Elman, the virtuoso violinist, who turns 70 today, still has a schoolboy crush on the opposite sex. On the artistic level, of course.

"In this country we wouldn't have progressed culturally the way we have without women. Men are too busy making money or trying to be successful."

Elman, a short, cherubic-looking man with sparse white hair and a mischievous grin, waves his arms for emphasis.

Women Give Time
"In my travels I am always greeted by women presidents of societies that bring artists to their town. I'm always introduced to committees primarily made up of women. I'm not criticizing men, but it is the women who give the time."

"If it weren't for women, men wouldn't give money—or be husbands either." He gives a short bark of amusement.

"Generally speaking, when it comes to art women are much more sensitive. I think I'm safe when I say that. All the time men say to me, 'my wife is interested in painting, or interested in music.' I never hear women say 'my husband paints.' So it's obviously women who are interested in artistic things."

Happy Marriage
Elman takes an admiring view of women primarily, though, because of his wife, Helen. Over the years he hasn't missed a chance to point out in news stories, on radio and television what an excellent wife she is and how he wouldn't have been happy in his career if his marriage hadn't been happy.

Have Two Children
Have women changed? "Forty-five years ago I said to an old bachelor friend: 'Albert, I said, 'tell me what is the difference between ladies in the days when you were young and today?' "Albert said, 'in the old days every demimonde tried to look like a lady, and today every lady tries to look like a demimonde.'"

The Elmans have two children, a boy and girl, grown and living in California, and two grandchildren, aged 6 and 9, whom Elman says proudly "know me like a book."

Gave 21 Concerts
He was much younger than his grandchildren when he started playing the violin. He was only 3. At 10 he was studying with the great Leopold Auer at the St. Petersburg conservatory, at 12 he made his debut in Berlin, and at 14 played for British royalty.

At 17, in 1908, he came to the United States and after his first concert he played 21 more in New York that year, still a record.

Healthy and active, he shows no signs of letting up.

Fragmentary Filches Found Even Among Work of Literary Greats

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Literary or artistic theft is called plagiarism and it is rare enough or seems to be — so that it seldom comes to the attention of the public. As a general thing, writers and artists are jealous enough about their work so that when it is stolen there is a great deal to do, and plagiarists do not willingly run the risk.

It is surprising, however, to find that some of our literary all-time greats were guilty of the cowardly thing. You'll be surprised:

Abraham Lincoln cribbed somewhat when he said those rotund words "That this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

It is significant that Lincoln spoke those memorable lines on November 19, 1863.

It is also memorable that one Thomas Parker, in a speech nine years earlier, said, "... a government of all the people, by all the people, for all the people ..."

Accident?

Man and Muse

Well, the great Oliver Goldsmith once wrote this line: "Thou best-humored man with the worst-humored muse." Unfortunately, mien, as to be lov'd needs only John Wilmot who died 42 years to be seen."

before the birth of Goldsmith. That may be a fragmentary had written this: "For pointed filch, but it'll hold until a near-satire I would Buckingham or one comes along.

choose, the best good man with the worst-natured muse."

If you believe the similarity in those two quotations are not close enough to constitute plagiarism, what do you think of the following?

John Quincy Adams, in 1802, wrote these words: "Westward the star of empire takes its way." But George Berkeley, who died in 1764, had written this: "Westward the course of empire takes its way."

Tertullian pilfered this line from the Greek: "He who flees will fight again." Erasmus, years later, in 1542, wrote: "That same man runneth away may fight again another day." Many years later, Paul Searron wrote: "He who flies can also return; but it is not so with him who dies." In 1752, James Ray wrote: "He that fights and runs away may turn and fight another day." And in 1761, Oliver Goldsmith wrote: "For he who fights and runs away may live to fight another day." And, perhaps finally, A. E. Houseman "But since that man runs away, lives to die another day."

If that isn't a long series of ditty swiping, it certainly appears to be some remarkably lively coincidences.

Burton Was Right

Robert Burton (who stole it from Terence) wrote: "They lard their lean books with the fat of others' works. . . We can say nothing but what hath been said. Our poets steal from Homer."

They did, too! And from anybody else who turned a pretty phrase.

For example, Alexander Pope who was 57 years old when

Fleas for Inspiration

Jonathon Swift wrote the familiar lines about fleas, but 61 years after Swift's death, Augustus de Morgan wrote an almost identical verse:

Great fleas have little fleas upon their backs to bite em, And little fleas have lesser fleas, and so ad infinitum. And the great fleas themselves in turn have greater fleas to go on While these again have greater still, and so on.

You know the sweet, familiar lines of Ben Jonson's verses which is now a well-loved song: "Drink to me only with thine eyes. . . or leave a kiss but in the cup and I'll not look for wine."

Well, praise Jonson as you will, but Philostratus had written something like that many, many years before, thus:

"Drink to me with your eyes alone. . . and if you will, take the cup to your lips and fill it with kisses and give it so to me."

William Walker (1623 - 1686) wrote in his "The art of reading" these lines:

Learn to read slow: all other graces Will follow in their proper places.

But John Byrom (1692-1763) wrote a piece called "Advice to preach Slow" and in it he said:

Railroad Sues for $660,370 Tax Refund

MADISON (AP)—The Chicago & North Western Railway has instituted a suit in Dane County Circuit Court asking a $660,370 state tax refund.

The railway, in the suit filed Thursday, contends that the state, in 1959, assessed its property at $68 million, whereas its market value actually was $42 million. North Western paid 1959 taxes of $1,706,995 under protest.

Past Presidents Had Varying Views of What Office Holds

WASHINGTON —(AP)— John F. Kennedy, in a speech Jan. 9 before the Massachusetts Legislature, referred to the presidency as "a high and lonely office."

Here is what some other presidents had to say of the job to which Kennedy succeeds today: George Washington: "My movements to the chair of government will be accompanied by feelings not unlike those of a culprit who is going to the place of his execution. . ."

Thomas Jefferson: "The second

office of the government is honorable and easy; the first is but a splendid misery."

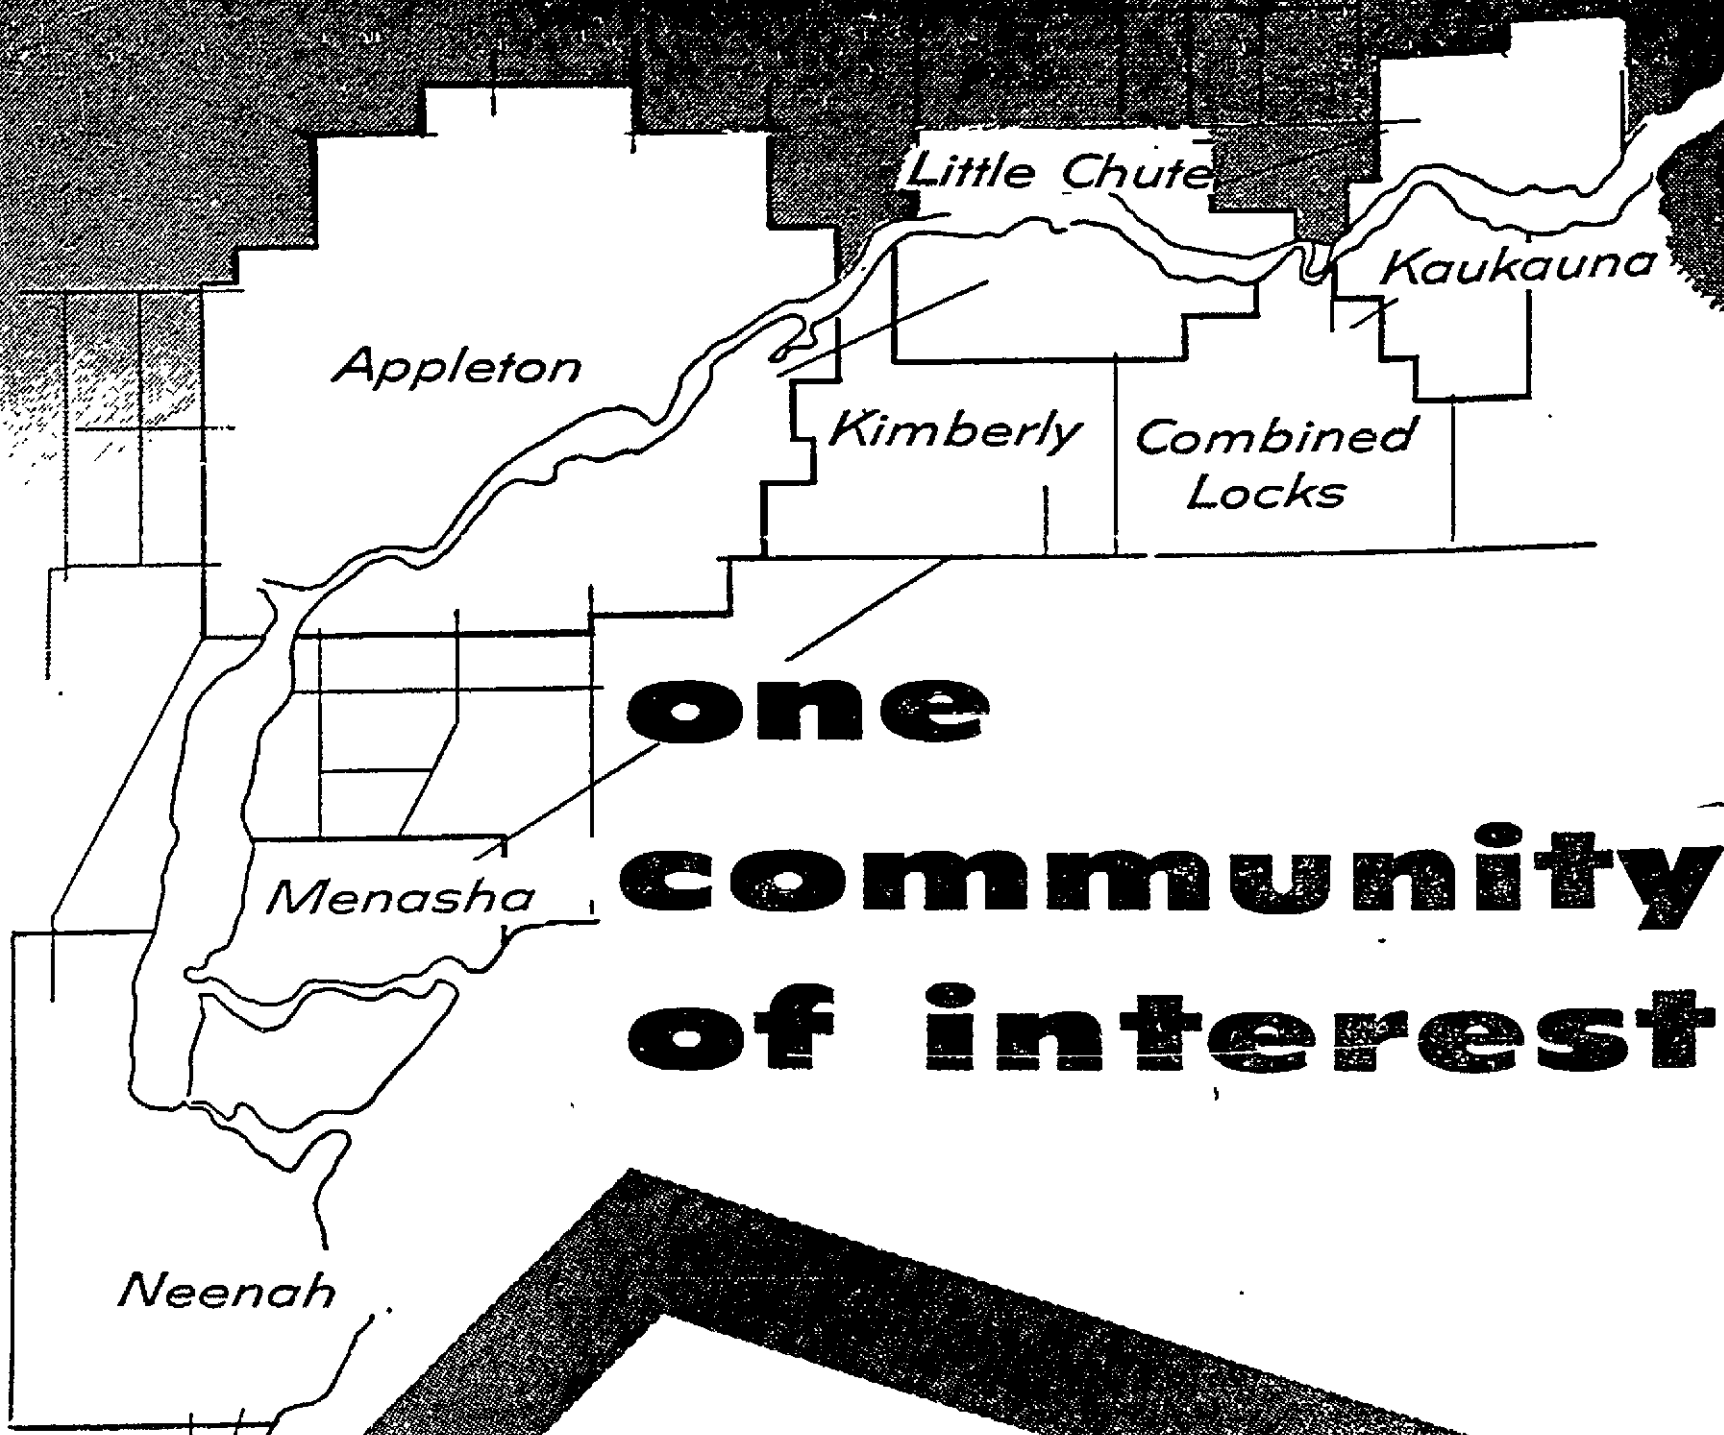

Abraham Lincoln: "I have been selected to fill an important office for a brief period, and am now, in your eyes, invested with an influence which will soon pass away; but should my administration prove to be a very wicked one, or what is more probable, a very foolish one, if you, the people, are true to yourselves and the constitution, there is but little harm I can do, thank God."

James Buchanan, to Lincoln: "If you are as happy, my dear sir, on entering this house (the White House) as I am in leaving it and returning home, you are the happiest man in this country."

Harry S. Truman described the White House as "the finest prison in the world."

Personal Seclusion
Herbert Hoover: "Presidents have only two moments of personal seclusion. One is prayer. The other is fishing—and they cannot pray all the time."

Dwight D. Eisenhower (at a news conference): "... It's a fascinating business. It's a kind of thing that would engage the interest . . . of any man alive." (On seeing the stands for Kennedy's inaugural parade going up): "... I feel like the fellow in jail who is watching his scaffold being built."

Clark Hits At Pension Board Action

Had Asked Delay After Retirement Motion on Floor

MENASHA — Police Chief Peter P. Clark, whose retirement was ordered Thursday by the police pension board, today criticized the board's action.

Clark, whose retirement will be effective March 1, said Mayor John Klein should have allowed his request for adjournment or postponement of the retirement action.

Clark made his request after the motion to order his retirement had been made and seconded. Clark's request was not in the form of a motion. The board instead moved for action on the question and voted 5-1, with Clark offering the only dissent.

The chief added that he thought the pension board, before taking its action to retire him, should have come to him and discussed and negotiated it.

He said he has not decided whether he would contest the retirement action, which is allowed the pension board under Wisconsin statutes.

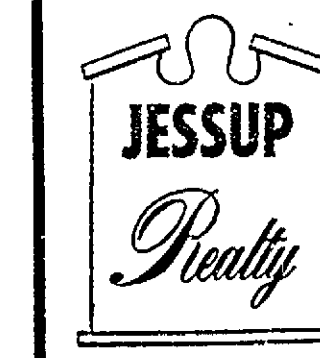

Board membership is Mayor John Klein, City Clerk, Comptroller Harry Kind, City Treas. Frank Beck, chief clerk and three police patrolmen—William Ciske, David Kolasinski and Charles Evans.

Laemrich to Seek 13th Term on Council

MENASHA — Paul Laemrich, 336 First St., a Menasha First Ward alderman since 1937, today filed completed nomination papers for a 13th term. Laemrich is the senior alderman.

He is employed by Oshkosh Brewing Co. So far, no other candidates for his post have announced.

Nomination filing deadline is Jan. 31. The city general election will be April 4.

County Fair Board Elects, Maps Plans

Magnusen Renamed President; Neenah, Larsen Men Directors

OSHKOSH — Lewis C. Magnusen was reelected president of the Winnebago County Fair Association at its annual meeting Wednesday night. George Ryf was named vice president; Hugh Gear and Don Lloyd, second vice presidents; Joseph Meyer, treasurer; and Robert J. Misky, secretary-manager. Gear is from Menasha and the others are from Oshkosh.

Directors elected in addition to the officers are Fredrick V. Behlendorf, Guy Grundy, A. R. Maxwell, Ray Parker, Louis Jensen, Donald Lloyd, Gordon Raddatz, Carl Steiger and Herbert Zwickey, all of Oshkosh; and Oshkosh rural routes: Taylor C. Brown of Menasha; Archie Daggett of Omro; Ben Bockin of Winneconne; A. H. Moeser of Larsen and Phil Lautenbach of Fremont.

Named to honorary directorships were John Bloom and A. T. Hennig of Oshkosh and J. B. Schneller of Neenah.

Three new directors were named to the board. They are Louis C. Haltug, Oshkosh, general manager of Rockwell-Standard Corp.; B. W. Keese, Neenah, development engineer of Rockwell-Standard Corp.; and Lloyd Hanamann, Larsen, executive vice president and cashier of the Farmers State Bank of Larsen.

An extensive improvement program was laid out to bring the fair properties into better conditions. Many of the farm buildings are to be painted and repaired, asphalt walks laid in the barns and a cattle wash rack will be installed.

The Fair Association is financially in very good condition, because of the many persons who supported it during the last three years, it was reported. As the association is a non-profit organization, the directors plan to improve both the grounds and the entertainment for the 1961 season. Several top notch stars are being negotiated for and will be announced after the signing of contracts, Misky reported.

Modified stock car races will be held each Tuesday starting in the spring and the contract was awarded to the Slinger Speedway, Inc.

Show Interest In the Youth, Owens States

Olympics Track Star Speaks at Jaycees Dinner

OSHKOSH — Show an interest in the youth of our country, which is America's greatest commodity, so that you may have a greater people, a greater community and a greater world. Jesse Owens, all-time great track star and former Olympic champion, declared at the distinguished service award dinner of the Oshkosh Junior Chamber of Commerce Thursday night at the Masonic Temple.

Now a member of the Illinois Youth Commission staff, Owens told the several hundred at the dinner to keep the philosophy and program of the Jaycees before them as a beacon light.

Young people of outstanding athletic ability are sought after by many colleges but they must be given the desire for knowledge, science, liberal arts and education. Otherwise they will be going through college with rose-colored glasses that will be snatched off, leaving them with nothing if their only concern is athletics, he stated.

'Ethics Never Tarnish'

Trophies can become tarnished and banners gather dust but what is learned on the way to a championship as long as it is taught by a code of ethics can never become tarnished or dusty, he continued. Give youngsters the feeling of belonging and you can cut down juvenile delinquency.

Owens told of how two young girls, one a swimmer and the other a track star, saved the prestige of the United States in last summer's Olympics.

He also stressed the importance of the family life and the church as being at the foundations of the country and its greatness and stressed the need for these to continue.

Cemetery Rate Schedule Set By City Council

Fees Increased To Reduce Annual Operating Deficit

NEENAH — A new schedule of charges for cemetery lots, perpetual care and other services was approved by the Common Council Wednesday night.

The increases were necessary, Mayor Chester S. Bell said, because of the increasing operating deficit of the cemetery each year. Cemetery income is about $10,000 while the city must budget about $36,000 for operating expenses.

Prices charged by other cemeteries were checked, he said, but no uniformity was found.

Non-Resident Fee

Also, in an effort to discourage non-residents of Neenah from buying lots in the Neenah cemetery, charges will be doubled for people living outside the city limits.

Prices for cemetery lots will range from $40 for a single grave, to $275 for an eight-grave lot in the first row, and from $30 to $215 in the third row.

Perpetual care ranges from $30 for a single grave to $240 for an eight-grave lot. Annual care will cost from $150 to $10, depending on the number of graves.

A child's grave will cost $30 with half of that total going for perpetual care.

Grave openings

Grave opening charges will be $60 for adults, $30 for children, $10 for infants and $10 for ashes. An additional charge of $10 will be levied for Saturday burial or burial after 4 p.m. for adults and children, and $5 for infants.

Vault charges will be $10 for adults and $5 for infants under six years.

Marker foundations will cost from $5 for a 20-inch marker, to $18 for a 50-inch marker. The price is the same for 12, 14, 16 and 18 inch widths.

Excavation for monument foundations will be at the rate of $1.50 per cubic foot.

Heigl, Mueller File Papers For Election

Supervisor Is Veteran of 19 Years on Board

NEENAH — Incumbent Seventh Ward Supv. John T. Heigl and Paul Mueller, candidate for First Ward, have filed completed nomination papers with City Clerk R. V. Hauser.

Heigl, 58, lives at 303 S. Lake St. He has been a member of the county board for 19 years and has been vice chairman for seven years.

He is on the highway committee and is a past president of the International Brotherhood of Papermakers union at Kimberly - Clark Corp. where he is employed as a machine tender.

Former Alderman

He is married and has two daughters. Heigl also served two terms, from 1938 to 1942, on the Neenah City Council.

Mueller, 44, lives at 600 Laudan Blvd. He is married and has three children. This is his first try for public office.

He is employed as a customer service supervisor at the Marathon Division, American Can Co., Neenah Plant. Mueller has been employed by Marathon since 1944.

Lived in Menasha

He was born in Manitowoc and lived in Menasha for 11 years and has been in Neenah since 1957.

Mueller is a 1940 graduate of the University of Wisconsin. He has been active in local Republican committee work and is a past officer of the Knights of Columbus. He also was chairman of the Marathon children's Christmas party.

Mueller will be opposing Warren Sanders for the First Ward post. Sanders filed papers Wednesday for reelection.

NHS Variety Show

Man From Future Sees 'People of Manahatta'

NEENAH — What would a man from the future see if he came back into our world? This is what the Neenah High School junior class answers with its annual variety show, "People of Manahatta" Feb. 4 in the school auditorium.

The man from the future lands in Manhattan and finds the Rock-ets dancing and singing to "Another Op'nin, Another Show." Featured in this number are Jeri Stip, Kitchie Talbot, Tina Petain, Ann Gaustad, Karen Swenson, Cami Kellogg, Mollie Harker, Linda Fuss, Marcia Quade and Karen Barnes.

Harmonizing in "Thirty - Third and Third" are Joan Bylow, Jane Lyon and Mary Jo Kelley.

Career Girls

Soloist Betty Ellis sings "Everybody's Got a Home But Me."

Down at the docks, Bill Bayley, Ned Blue, Dave Swenson and Mike McGregor sail in with well-known boating songs.

A Dixieland jazz jam session is rendered by the Dixie Combo of Tom Hewitt, Dick Thorpe, Bob Perry, Rick De Benedetto and Gary Austin.

Ballet Selection

Ballet also enters the picture with Holly Hilton, Ruth Charlton, Dierdre La Pin, Mary Nelson, Lynn Guentzel, Kathy Holverson, Sally Nichols, Judy Angermeyer, Jane Asmuth, Karen Hanson, Ann Giovannini, Cathy Crosson, Lynn Graebner and Linda Buchanan doing an original version.

The man from the future does not escape the modern teenager as Lloyd Hewitt, Bob Perry and Bob Kuttig give out with rock n' roll.

A selection from "South Pacific" is authentically done by Barb Buchanan, Maryanne Mueller, Sherry Allen, Ellen Long and Gloria Olson.

Flapper Era

Fond memories are recalled from the flapper era by Marilyn Schloemer, Karen Werling, Steve Schwab, Carla Bart, Marna Jorgenson and Carole Tingley.

Several of George Gershwin's popular favorites are played by Pat Scholz.

The man from the future is also treated to modern jazz by the "Heils Brothers," featuring Dave Heilsburg on the trumpet. Others in the group are Steve Hildebrand, Mike McGregor and Jim Hedlund.

Native Colombian dances are performed by Sylvia Barreto, exchange student from that South American country.

Comedy is not forgotten as Mowry Stip and Bill Gilbert team up to keep 'em laughing.

Jim Hedlund and John O'Leary are the emcees to help keep the man from the future from becoming too confused.

'61 Uncertain For Nation's Auto Industry

Carmakers Wonder If Current Year Can Become Another '58

BY BEN PHILGAR
DETROIT (AP) — With layoffs up and sales down one question being asked around the auto industry is: Could 1961 turn into another 1958?

Make such an inquiry in the sales offices of the auto companies and you might get tossed out. The disaster of 1958, when less than 4.3 million American-built cars were sold, is too recent to be forgotten and too horrible to remember.

The automakers, in fact, have convinced themselves it can't happen again. They had difficulty believing it at the time. For example, exactly three years ago this month they were saying:

"Given a return of confidence there could be a substantial upturn in retail auto sales during the second half of the year."—William F. Hulstader, General Motors.

"All the evidence indicates that more people have money to spend and are in a good credit position."—Benson Ford, Ford Motor Co.
David J. Wilkie, then automotive editor of the Associated Press, in summarizing the viewpoints wrote, "It should be noted, however, that there is no gloom among the car makers at this time."

Not Much Gloom
This appears to be the current situation in the industry—not too much gloom but various disturbing factors. These include:

Sales for the first 10 days of January were slow—about 14,960 a day compared with an average 16,900 for the first 10 days of the past seven years.

Inventories are at record highs. Stocks of unsold new cars total slightly more than one million, the equivalent of more than 60 days' supply. Many dealers try to limit their stocks to 30 days; few want more than 45 days' supply.

Used cars are sluggish. The average price of all used cars sold at auction in early January was $98 under the year-ago figure, according to an Automotive News tabulation. The average price at which one-year-old models were sold has dropped $299 in a year. The average for three-year-old models (the time cycle the industry aims for) has dropped $179.

These factors have brought sharp cuts in production and the consequent layoffs of both production and salaried employees by the auto companies. Ward's Reports estimates indefinite layoffs of hourly workers since the start of 1961 model production at 30,000. Chrysler and Studebaker-Packard also have cut salaried staffs.

Temporary Layoffs
Other workers have been subjected to temporary layoffs or short work weeks, or both. Car building this month is not expected to run much over 400,000 units, lowest for any January since 1952. No general price cuts are apt to be announced although rebates and bonuses from factories to dealers provide the means of shaving little price figures or offering higher trade-in allowances.

The used car market directly affects new car sales because new car dealers sell about two-thirds of all used cars. Roughly four of every five new car sales involve trade-ins. If a dealer is having trouble reselling these trade-ins, he has to cut the amount he can offer on a new car deal.

Key months lie ahead. Auto sales normally are slower at this time of year than in the spring and summer months. Most observers concede that if there is to be any real upturn in sales it will come with warmer weather.

Municipal Credit Union Reelects Three Directors

Appleton Municipal Credit Union Tuesday re-elected three directors and raised its share limit from $1,200 to $2,000.

Return to the board of directors for three-year terms were Robert T. Maves, Walter Bogan and Robert Thompson. Gladys Lewis was re-elected to the credit committee.

The directors re-elected Bogan president, Mrs. Elmer Bohm treasurer and Reginald J. Gloude-Smith secretary, and chose Joseph Schoenhaar to replace Elden J. Broehm as vice president.

The 118-member credit union's annual report showed assets and net worth of $20,991 at the end of 1960. Investment by members increased from $17,957 to $18,411 in the year, and loans outstanding from $7,421 to $14,573 during the year.

Broadway Musical Coming to Appleton

Imogene Coca, Edward Everett Horton To Star in 'Once Upon a Mattress'

Both theatergoers and television fans have a real treat in store for them Sunday night, Jan. 29 when "Once Upon a Mattress" comes to Appleton High School Auditorium as the third and last play of the current Neenah Rotary Club's stage play series.

They will be able to see three stage and TV greats star in leading roles of the Broadway musical comedy called "hilarious" and "charming" by critics. The leads of the show are Imogene Coca, Edward Everett Horton and King Donovan.

Comedienne Imogene Coca plays the part of the swampland princess in this whimsical retelling of the Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale "The Princess and the Pea." Recently she has been commuting between a London engagement for BBC-TV and the West Coast for the George Gobel show, and to the East Coast for the Perry Como show. Miss Coca has been the recipient of more than 50 achievement awards, including the Peabody award, an Emmy, four Look awards, and two Newspaper Guild awards.

Edward Everett Horton, one of America's most beloved comedians, stars as the henpecked King, a part which employs his droll and humorous pantomime gifts to their fullest advantage. His many television and theater fans have enjoyed his performance in "Springtime for Henry" for many years.

Also starring in this spoof is King Donovan as Prince Dauntless the Drab. Television audiences will remember him for his performances on the Bob Cummings program and in Burns and Allen show. He has appeared on practically all of the leading TV shows emanating from the West Coast.

The book and lyrics for "Once Upon a Mattress" are by Marshall Barer, Jay Thompson, Dean Fuller and Allen Shaw. The score was written by state which have chain stores in the within their area," Sussman said. Mary Rodgers, daughter of the famed composer Richard Rodgers, in a statement.

Store Tax Before Solons

State Voters Would Be Asked to Approve Levy on Chains

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin voters would decide whether an occupational tax should be levied on chain stores, under terms of a legislative proposal submitted in the State Senate.

Author of the proposal is Norman Sussman, a freshman Democratic senator from Milwaukee who unsuccessfully introduced a similar measure in the 1959 session when he was an assemblyman. Sussman and his brother operate an independent grocery in Milwaukee.

Sussman proposes to ask voters in the November, 1962 election whether they believe the occupational tax should become effective Jan. 1, 1963.

The tax would range from $50 for two-store chains, to $1,000 a store, for companies operating more than 10 outlets. Sussman estimates the total additional revenue would amount to about $2 million a year.

Half of the sum would be distributed to localities where the chain stores are based. "I feel that this bill will help support various localities in the state which have chain stores in the within their area," Sussman said. The constitution now excludes non-taxed Indians from the population figure.

Insurance Company Reports $1 Million Rise in Policies

WEST BLOOMFIELD — At the 79th annual meeting of the Bloomfield Mutual Insurance Co. the secretary's report showed a substantial gain of over $1 million of insurance in force the last year. Policies now total $31,484,000 with a gain in policyholder surplus to $151,388.

The windstorm coverage which the company began writing in April, 1960, has been growing steadily. Insurance in force now totals about $3,000,000.

Louis J. Braun, route 1, Berlin and Arthur Schuelke, route 1, Manawa, were elected to the board of directors. Schuelke takes the place of M. A. Koehler, star route, Weyauwega.

A vote of appreciation was given Koehler for his 41 years of service to the company.

Other holdover directors are—H. L. Steltzer, route 1, Weyauwega, Leon H. Fraedrich, route 1, Pine River, Herbert Winters, Weyauwega, Robert F. Koehler, route 2, Fremont, and Grant Bartel, route 2, Fremont.

Fraedrich was elected president. Schuelke, vice president, and Steltzer, secretary - treasurer.

The Senate calls for the required second legislative approval of a suggested amendment to the Constitution which would allow all Indians to be counted in a political district's population total.

It was introduced by Sen. Robert Moser, D-Milwaukee. The constitution now excludes non-taxed Indians from the population figure.

Youth First 'Paca County Road Victim

Terry Elsner, 18,
Killed in Car
At New London

Terry Lee Elsner, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Elsner, route 1, New London, became Waupaca County's first 1961 traffic fatality about 11:55 p.m. Thursday when his car rolled over in a ditch along County Trunk W near the south city limits of New London.

County Patrolman Lyle McCully said Elsner apparently lost control of his car while traveling south at the city limits. It swerved into the east ditch, skidded sideways 288 feet, struck a dirt driveway and rolled over on its top.

Deputy Coroner Dr. John W. Monsted said Elsner died of a crushed skull fracture when his head was pinned by the car door. Thirteen people died on Waupaca County highways in 1960.

Elsner was born July 20, 1942, in New London. He was a 1960 graduate of New London High School and was employed at Superior Electric Co., Appleton.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p. m. Monday at the Cline and Hanson Funeral home, New London with the Rev. Wesley L. Sharpe of Northport Methodist church, in charge. Burial will be in Floral Hill Cemetery, New London.

He is survived by his parents, a brother, two sisters and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gracyalhy, 844 Appleton St., Menasha.

Correction

Mrs. Exceida Glasheen, 35, 1912 N. Charlotte St., was fined $100 Wednesday when she was found guilty of drunken driving by Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg. Her name was incorrectly reported as Mrs. Pete Glasheen. She has an unmarried son named Pete.

Retiring President Eisenhower and his successor, John Kennedy, leave the White House today to ride together to the capitol for the inauguration of Kennedy as 35th president. Kennedy took his oath of office at 11 a.m. and then delivered his address.

D. C. Bradley Elected UCS President for '61

New oBard Chosen at Annual Meeting;
Allocations, Plans for Year Reported

Donald C. Bradley was elected president of the United Community Services at the annual UCS meeting Thursday night. Bradley, former UCS first vice president, succeeds William Cherkasky.

Other new officers are Harley Barney, first vice president, and Marvin Heiden, second vice president. Frans Larson was re-elected treasurer.

Members newly elected to 3-year terms on the board of directors are the Rev. I. B. Kindem, Bernard Smith, John Mann, and Heiden. Re-elected to the board are Cherkasky, Earl Miller, Gerald Hoffman, the Rev. H. Shelby Lee, Bradley, Jerome Capitaine, Mrs. Leroy Stohman, and Mrs. Joseph Foley.

1961 Allocations
Heiden, campaign department chairman, reported that the 1960 United Red Feather Campaign raised 11 per cent more than the 1959 drive, and 25 per cent more than the 1958 drive. The total raised was $151,434.39 or 94.3 per cent of the goal.

Mrs. Foley, chairman of the budget department, said that, based on campaign results, $151,052 will be allocated to the eight Red Feather agencies and UCS during 1961 to balance operating budgets of more than $407,000. Larson reported a cash balance of $63,699.48 as of Dec. 31.

Certificates Awarded
Other reports for 1960 were given by Wilmer Stach, research and planning department chairman; Rev. Peter Klauk, agency forum president, Cherkasky and Bradley.

Certificates were awarded to the 1960 drive division chairmen, section leaders, ward chairmen, team captains exceeding a 100 per cent quota, board members and officers completing their terms, department chairmen, and committee members. Community awards were given to radio stations WAPL and WHBY, the Appleton Post-Crescent, and the Golden Age Club.

A vaudeville style review gave a preview of UCS work for 1961. Studies scheduled include those on family service, expanding the UCS area and including more agencies, supplemental drives by Red Feather agencies, the decreasing Visiting Nurse Association case load, public health services for this area, and fees for services.

The review also included an analysis of the 1960 drive, showing that more strength is needed in smaller industrial, mercantile, and construction firm divisions. Executive and employe solicitation in major firms was reported as good.

Measles Threat Subsides Little

Although Appleton's measles outbreak has subsided somewhat, the number of cases reported this week is still far above normal.

The City Health Department reports 132 new measles cases, compared with 190 last week, 171 the first week of January, 126 the last week of December, and only 136 in the rest of December combined.

The department reported 13 cases of mumps, 10 of chicken pox, two of scarlet fever and one of German measles this week.

G. Beckley, Jr., President of Building, Loan

Diderrich Resigns;
$4.5 Million Gain
In Assets Noted

George Beckley, Jr., was elected president of the Appleton Building and Loan Association at the annual meeting Thursday. He succeeds John R. Diderrich, who resigned after 22 years in office.

Diderrich was elected to the board of directors in 1921, became vice president in 1928, and had been president since 1938.

Wilmer C. Rehbein succeeds Beckley as vice president. Officers reelected are Mrs. Lucille Beckley, treasurer, and George H. Beckley Sr., secretary.

Reelected to the board of directors were W. E. Schubert, Beckley, Sr., and Rehbein. The association reported its best year to date, with a growth of more than $4.5 million in net assets and $750,000 distributed in dividends to shareholders. Total assets were reported at $23,387,693.

The new building and loan office at 320 E. College Ave., which will have drive-in window service, is scheduled for completion in May.

Drop Charge Against Pair Who Took Boy West

Charges against an Appleton couple who took a 12-year-old boy to California without his father's consent were dropped today in Municipal Court.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Grode, W. Rogers Ave., were charged with interfering with the custody of a child when they took Mrs. Grode's son by a previous marriage to Long Beach, Calif. after he was left with them for a two hour visiting period.

The boy wrote a card to his father, Edward Blake, route 1, Campbellsport, explaining he had been forced to go and giving the California address.

The boy was flown back to join his father, and the father asked for the dismissal of the charges.

Last Charter Member Of Neenah Church Dies

Mrs. Elizabeth Wauda, 84, 306 River St., Neenah, last surviving charter member of First Evangelical United Brethren Church, Neenah, died early today at Neenah after a long illness.

She was active most of her life as a Sunday school teacher and a member of the church women's society. She is survived by two sons, three daughters, four sisters, seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The program finally got underway—20 minutes late.

There were the prayers from leaders of four faiths, Roman Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Greek Orthodox.

Stirring Music

There was the stirring, martial music, the singing, and, an unusual event at inaugurations, a poem read by the poet himself, the venerable Robert Frost.

Curiously, there even was comedy, at the most inappropriate moment. During the invocation by Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston, smoke poured from the lectern. Whatever the origin of the fire, it was quickly extinguished.

Cardinal Cushing was undisturbed.

The comedy was in the consternation and fluttering about of aides to the committee on arrangements.

A flitting smile crossed even Kennedy's face.

Finally, came the point of all this proceeding, the taking of the oaths.

Lyndon B. Johnson's turn came first. The tall Texan, who had such high hopes of being president himself, was sworn in as vice president by his old friend, fellow Texan and political coach, House Speaker Sam Rayburn at 12:41 p.m., EST.

At last, the big moment. Kennedy slipped out of a topcoat protecting him against the 23 degree weather and stepped forward.

Facing Chief Justice Warren, and speaking in a loud, clear voice, he repeated the simple words, and took on the awesome job of leadership in this dangerously troubled world.

When the new President finished the oath, he turned to now ex-President Eisenhower and smiled broadly. Eisenhower smiled back and they shook hands.

Kennedy delivered his speech with the finger-pointing, hand-chopping gestures which became so familiar during the political campaign.

Even as he painted the grim picture of the world today, he was soberly confident.

"I do not shrink from this responsibility — I welcome it," he said.

Kennedy, who often deviated from prepared remarks during the campaign, followed his text closely.

Kennedy was interrupted 14 times in his 14-minute address.

Eisenhower joined in the applause. Once was when Kennedy declared that this hemisphere shall be the master of its own house.

Eisenhower smiled and applauded again as Kennedy declared that those who attempt to ride the tiger sometimes wind up inside it.

On these great occasions the public man has his private cheering section. Few presidents have had such a large and enthusiastic family to back him.

Parents Present

Here were the proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy. Here were the brothers, the sisters, the close friends that make up the incredible Kennedy clan.

And here was the lovely first lady, Jacqueline Kennedy.

Only the two Kennedy children, considered too young for this whirlwind occasion, were missing. They were left in Florida.

Mrs. Kennedy's eyes seldom left her husband as he spoke. She gazed at him with a smile of pride.

Rabbi Dr. Nelson Glueck of Cincinnati pronounced the benediction.

A part of Dr. Glueck's benediction was given in Hebrew. He concluded at 1:12 p.m. EST.

Nominations Made for 'Paca Banker Award

WAUPACA — Nominations for the 10th annual Bankers Awards Program from each of 22 county townships have been announced by John Nimlos, soil conservationist.

The judges met at Symco Evangelical Lutheran Church at a dinner meeting sponsored by the bankers Tuesday, where they received instructions and assignments.

Nominations are originally made by all the agricultural agencies working in Waupaca County. The nominees includes from 12 to 24 farmers from each township.

The Waupaca County Farm Improvement Association directors met and cut the list of nominees to five or six whom they considered most likely to win the township award. These five or six nominees are judged by a judging team from a township some distance from their home. The one farm family who, in the judges opinion, has made the most progress in soil conservation, crop and livestock management, family living and community service will be selected as township winner.

Speaker was Marvin H. Schwesers, state soil conservationist, Madison. He commended the 95 farmers who will devote several days to the event. He praised them for their interest in their land, their home, and their community.

A skit was put on by the past county winners to demonstrate how judging should be done and to express appreciation to the bankers for their interest in this program.

The following is a list of the nominees:

BEAR CREEK — William E. Miller, Louis Hartwig, Louis Klomp, Ed Kriebel, Otto Kubitz;

Mild Weather and Lack of snow cover throughout the Fox Cities area has given farmers a chance to catch up on field work left during the wet spells of last harvest season. Miles Simpson, route 2, Appleton, is baling hay. Clifford Hansen, route 1, Fremont, found the weather ideal for packing corn. Many farmers haven't seen a winter like this for 20 years.

used for furnace wood. A cord of hard wood when burned in a furnace is equivalent to 200 gallons of fuel oil in BTUs of heat. Herman said. Schmidt has wood piles at several spots along roads in his woods.

One huge ash, measuring more than three feet in diameter, was felled last week. It took nearly 10 minutes for Schmidt and Dennis Diermeier, Shiocton, working with two chain saws, to tumble the giant. Herman estimated the tree contained more than a 1,000 board feet of timber in limbs and trunk.

Oak is used in veneer, beech in clothes pins and ash in axe and hammer handles.

Cost Sharing

Under a woodlot program a farmer can earn an average of $15 an acre in cost sharing from ACP for culling undesirable trees from a woods. Once a farmer becomes a cooperator with Herman and desires to merchant his timber, Herman will estimate volume and mark trees for cutting.

The forester will tally the stumpage and put out the land for bid. He can set up a simple contract between the buyer and seller. The forester also checks the cutting to be sure the contract is followed. If an unmarked tree is cut, the contractor must pay twice the value of the tree, Herman says. All service is free to the woodland owner.

Quiz Winners

Judy Dryden, John Bock and Donna Hartsworm were winners in a quick quiz on courtesy and safety at the Cicero Busy Bees 4-H meeting. The club had a skating party Wednesday. A box social is planned for the next meeting Feb. 6.

Canner Sees End Near for Small Operator

G. J. Hipke Gives Opinion at Legislative Meeting

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON—The proprietor of a Calumet County food processing firm that has survived for more than two generations has predicted that "the time for the small operator" in the vegetable canning business is limited.

G. J. Hipke of New Holstein made the statement at a legislative conference here sponsored by the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce. He is the head of a family canning firm, a leader in the Wisconsin Canners Association and is the state assembly representative of his county.

Hipke reviewed the trend in the last two decades for the consolidation of production facilities in the food processing field, and said the process is probably inevitable in agricultural industry as it is in other lines of manufacturing.

The legislator also said the food processors will oppose "wild" proposals in the legislature on the use of economic poisons in agriculture, adding:

"There is nobody more concerned about these problems than the food processor, but basically it requires an educational program. "He referred to pending propositions in the legislature for a system of licensing and regulation of the distribution and use of pesticides, herbicides, antibiotics and other materials in agricultural food production.

"Chemicals are no more dangerous than a firearm. Properly used it is our best friend," said the legislator.

U. S. Beet Growers to Produce One Fourth Of Sugar for Country

A recent sugar determination will afford domestic beet sugar and mainland cane sugar processors an opportunity to market about 28 per cent of the sugar to be used in the United States during the first three months of 1961.

The action, applying to the first quarter only up to March 31, was the establishment of quotas by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This action coupled with the presidential proclamation establishing the Cuban quota at zero for the first quarter also makes available an additional 824,299 tons of sugar which can be authorized for purchase and importation as non-quota sugar. The U.S. Department of Agriculture had previously announced that domestic sugar-beet and cane acreages were to be unrestricted for the 1961 crops.

The total sugar quotas established for the first quarter of cal-

Calf Purchase Plan Set Up For 4-H Youth

Holstein, Guernsey Breeders Sponsoring County Project

The Holstein and Guernsey Breeders in Outagamie County again are planning a program so that 4-H and FFA members may purchase purebred registered calves with known pedigrees.

Holstein calves must be from dams with a butterfat record of 450 pounds or more, or if the calf is from a first calf heifer, the grand-dam on the sam's side must have a record of 500 pounds or more.

Guernsey calves must be from dams with a mature equivalent of 400 pounds of butterfat or more from first calf heifers, grand-dams must have a record of 450 pounds or more.

Breeders will price these calves at a figure which they feel is reasonable. The price which is quoted will be the price for the calf during the period and cannot be changed during the sale by either seller or purchaser. The price includes the registration and transfer costs. The purchaser must pick up the calf at the sellers farm.

Visit Farms

If more than one member desires to purchase the same calf, then these members will place their name in a hat and a drawing will be held. Final purchases will be made at a meeting of all prospective purchasers March 8, at the courthouse, Appleton.

Members have the opportunity to visit the farms to look at these calves on either March 3 or 4. All calves will be junior calves born in January or February.

Each 4-H Dairy Leader will receive pedigrees of the animals entered in the sale by the breeders. Individual members who would like copies of the pedigrees may receive them by writing to the extension office.

Deadline for entering calves for sale by breeders is Feb. 25. Breeders should send in the pedigree of the calves and the asking price.

Area Beet Growers Learn New Methods of Harvesting

Michigan Man Tells Way to Cut Production Costs at Area Parleys

Calumet and Outagamie County with an average per acre yield of 14 tons with some fields reaching the 20-ton mark.

Profits are slim, the Michigan farmer warned, when the yield drops much below 10 ton. Wisconsin's average last year was 9.33 but Calumet County fared much better with an average yield of about 12 ton per acre.

Theodore Bateman, Saginaw, Mich., was the featured speaker. He farms 640 acres and last year raised 240 acres of sugar beets.

"For Water Where You Want It" that time compared with a 37.4 per cent increase in the yield per acre in Michigan.

Bateman will speak at all nine district meetings which precede the annual meeting scheduled for Jan. 23 here.

Elimination of much of the costly and time consuming soil preparation work is the first step in cutting production costs, Bateman explained.

Where county and area farmers burn many gallons of fuel working the soil into a fine texture, Bateman uses a "plow-plant" method in which the planting is done in direct conjunction with the original plowing of the beet field. Commercial fertilizer is applied at the same time making it a three-in-one process.

Uses Spray

The seed is planted with a 4-inch spacing and rows are placed 32 inches apart.

Instead of migrant workers hoeing the beets — at a cost of about $20 per acre — Bateman keeps the weeds down with chemical pre-emergence weed killer. Even then conservation is practiced. The chemical is not wasted on bare ground between rows but is instead directed on the rows with only an 8-inch band of spray emitted for each row.

He recommended five pounds of TCA per acre for grassy weeds and three pounds of endothal for broad leaved varieties. Farmers were warned, however, to exercise extreme caution with the chemicals and to follow label directions exactly.

Harrow Beets

A spring tined harrow serves as a cultivator and beet thinner for Bateman. With colored slides he showed how the implement is drawn diagonally at a wide angle to the rows to uproot weed seedlings and poorly rooted beets which otherwise would be thinned by hand.

The harrow, he said, can be used at any stage of growth and does a better than average job of cultivating by getting weeds protected by the broad beet leaves.

The chemicals and mechanical thinning brought his labor cost per acre to about $14 compared with $25 for the average Wisconsin acre.

Walter Page, president of the Menominee Sugar Co., Green Bay, explained a new contract which the company hopes to put into effect for growers within a 38-mile radius of the Green Bay plant.

Already accepted by the grower association board of directors, the new pact will be put into effect if growers within the specified radius contract 6,000 acres of beets before March 15.

The new contract would give growers 50 per cent of the profits from the sale of the sugar and all its by-products, beet pulp — a dairy feed — and molasses. Formerly the growers shared in only sugar sale profits with the company retaining the by-product proceeds.

Profit Sharing

However, under the old contract the company assumed transportation costs while the new pact calls for the grower to pay for transportation. For this Hubert area growers would receive an additional 15 cents per ton from the company and Chilton area growers, 35 cents.

Beets grown outside the 38-mile radius would not be affected with profit sharing the same as in previous years.

Page also announced that the company expects to pay $1.25 per ton installment in April, the highest spring installment in years. The Christmas installment was $7.15 per ton and the final payment will be made in September.

The plant sold its sugar at the highest price of any beet sugar company in the country, it was announced.

At the business session, Gregory Geiser was elected as the district delegate to the annual meeting. Ray Woelfel was named alternate. Association president, Henry Heimann, was nominated as the district's candidate for director.

Feeder Pig Producers Plan Meeting

CHILTON — Calumet County feeder pig producers will hold their annual meeting Jan. 26 in the city hall here. The session opens at 10:30 a. m. and will run through the entire day.

Of special interest will be an educational trailer exhibit in the city hall parking lot. The mobile display deals with improved housing, breeding and financing.

Theme of the event will be "Building For the Future" with a preview of what Wisconsin's position in the feeder pig industry might be 10 years from now.

Carl Peik, president of the feeder pig marketing cooperative, will conduct the meeting and Norval Dvorak and Norbert Brandt, general and production managers of the cooperative, respectively, will be featured on the program.

A free ham dinner will be served at noon.

Seymour, Amherst Sites Of Weed Spray Clinics

A clinic on weed control for corn growers is planned at Amherst and Seymour Thursday.

The Amherst clinic will start at 1:30 p.m. at the high school. The Seymour clinic will start at 8 p.m. at the high school.

Modern practices and economic benefits of pre-emergence weed control in corn will be demonstrated. A color film will be shown on new production methods and results obtained.

Entry Date Set for Sears Swine Project

Members of 4-H clubs in Outagamie County interested in entering the Sears Swine program must have entries in the extension office by March 1.

Youths submitting their name must consider housing available if they should receive a pig, type of transportation available if a gilt must be taken somewhere for breeding and type of feed.

Farmers Must List Earnings

Net Over $400
Required for Credit For Social Security

Any farm operator who nets $400 or more from the operation of his farm in a taxable year must report his earnings for social security credit.

He does this by filing, along with the regular income tax return (Form 1040), a Schedule F. The Schedule F is used to determine the farm net income (gross sales minus all business expenses) and to figure the necessary social security tax. Both of these forms are obtained from the nearest office of the Director of Internal Revenue.

The $400 net rule applies to almost all self-employed people. However, there are some special regulations which apply only to farmers.

The farmer can get credit under social security even though his actual net earnings are less than $400; in fact, even if he operates his farm at a loss. This is done under a provision of the law called the farm option. Under the option, and following the rules shown on the back of the Schedule F, the farmer may claim as his net, two-thirds of his farm gross.

Amount of Pension

The farm option was put in the law by Congress in recognition that farm income may fluctuate greatly from year to year due to causes beyond the farmer's control. The option enables the farmer to get some credit under social security every year, if he grosses at least $600, regardless of the hazards of weather, market conditions, crop carry-over, etc.

To illustrate the value of social security coverage and of the option to the farmer, let's use as an

Dates Given for Farm Management Series

A series of three meetings on farm management are planned the last Thursday of January, February and March at Black Creek Community Hall.

Harold Huttenberg, northeast Wisconsin farm management fieldman, and Russell Luckow, Outagamie County farm and home development agent, are cooperating in the sessions which start at 8 p. m. each month.

Covered Jan. 26 will be management practices in feeding the dairy herd. Those attending are to bring a sample of hay. Farm expansion, Feb. 23, and costs of farm machinery, March 30.

2 Counties Announce Oshkosh Drama Clinic

Hal Lindahl, Wisconsin Idea Theater member, will lead a discussion at a drama training program the evening of Feb. 2 at the courthouse, Oshkosh.

The session, open to interested persons in 4-H and leaders from Outagamie and Winnebago counties, is aimed at helping plan drama programs for next year.

example a farmer who grosses at least $1,800 every year. Under the option, this farmer could claim a net of at least $1,200 every year. On his retirement at 65 this farmer would draw a social security benefit of at least $59 per month. If he became disabled so that he could no longer do any work, the same benefit would be paid regardless of his age. In the event of death, if a widow and at least one minor child survived, the monthly family benefit would amount to at least $88.50.

Any farm operator can gain this insurance protection if he grosses at least $600 per year from the operation of the farm. He is required, under the law, to purchase this protection through payment of the self-employment tax, if he nets $400 or more in a taxable year.

Farm Bureau Schedules Series of Dairy Clinics

The Wisconsin Farm Bureau has set up a series of dairy meetings to discuss dairy issues. The area meeting will be at 10 a. m. Feb. 1 at the Green Bay YMCA.

An official of the American Dairy Association of Wisconsin will be present to talk about recent problems concerning butterfat. Also on the program will be Donald Hirsch, dairy specialist, American Farm Bureau. Hirsch will discuss national dairy issues.

Fremont 4-H Club Names Officers, Picks Committees

FREMONT — James Freer was elected president of the Wolf River Wonder Workers 4-H Club, succeeding Daniel Otto.

Other officers elected were Robert Bartel, vice president, succeeding James Bauer; Leland Barz, treasurer, succeeding Warren Mielke; and Gloria Freer, reporter, succeeding Lora Schmidt. Lois Otto was re-elected secretary.

Parents appointed to the advisory board are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bartel, the Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Barz; and Mr. and Mrs. George Freer.

Project leaders for the next year are Mrs. Marlyn Hahn, home furnishings; Mrs. Raymond Koepp, foods and nutrition; Mrs. Irma Otto, sewing; Mrs. Kenneth Hahn, child care; Elwyn Krenke, crafts and mechanics, and Marlyn Hahn, other boys projects.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlyn Hahn were selected to be organization leaders. They will be host to the advisory board, project leaders and officers Wednesday when the activities of the coming season will be planned.

A skating party is planned at the Raymond Koepp home Monday. Serving on the committee will be Debbie Koepp, Diane Koepp, Marlyn Hahn and Duane Hahn. Regular meetings are held the second Monday evening of each month. James and Gregory Freer will be February hosts.

IFYE Member to Talk At 4-H Leader Meeting

Winter Offers Chance For Pruning Shrubs

Most Growths Can Stand More Severe
Trimming Now Than in Growing Season

BY JOHN E. POWERS
Outagamie County Agent

Wintertime, especially this winter, offers excellent opportunities for pruning and care of trees and shrubs. Most shrubs can stand a more severe pruning job when they are dormant than during the growing seasons. Shrubs such as lilacs, spirea, high bush cranberry and honeysuckle are especially adapted to winter pruning. Bridalwreath, honeysuckle and privet can be sawed off at ground level and new shrubs will grow next year. They will not bloom next spring, but you will have a nice new vigorous shrub.

Another way to encourage new growth is to cut out the old large canes, but leave the tops alone or there will be too much top growth. Pruning old lilacs is a bigger job than pruning spirea or honeysuckle. It is recommended to cut out from one-fourth to one-third of the old wood near the base, and head some of the larger branches back to a good live bud or side shoot. After three or four years of this pruning, you will have a new compact lilac shrub. Never prune a lilac too severely, as it sets it back too far.

Leave Roses

Rose bushes should be left alone for now and pruned next spring. After you finish pruning a shade tree, it should look like it did before you started, except it should have fewer branches. Study branch arrangement before you start to prune and copy the natural growth of the tree. First remove all of the dead wood; then the dangerous overhanging branches that will break easily in storms. Look for weak crotches and correct them. If you wish to reduce the tree size, cut the limbs back to a good side shoot or to the main trunk.

Field mice are the rodents most commonly responsible for damaging plantations by girdling the base of the trunk or upper root system of the trees. These animals live in surface runways and build nests of grass on the ground.

Cover Poison

Damage is most likely to occur in younger plantations with a heavy sod cover between the trees. The presence of the mice can be determined by searching for their runways in the grass. Any poisoned grain employed for the control of mice must be enclosed in "stations" such as under boards, stones, in partially closed boxes, tin cans, pipes, tile or other containers where it is out of reach of birds and of game mammals such as rabbits and squirrels.

A plantation should be systematically searched for mouse "sign" in the form of active runways and bait stations established in areas showing such sign. The stations should be located where runways intersect them. Twenty-five stations per acre should be sufficient to give adequate control.

One formula for a poisoned bait for field mice is given below.

Ingredients for Treating Sixteen Quarts of Oats

- 1 heaping tablespoon dry gloss starch
- 1 ounce strychnine (alkaloid) powdered
- 1 ounce baking soda
- ½ pint corn syrup
- 1 tablespoon glycerine
- one-tenth ounce saccharine
- 16 quarts oats (clean)

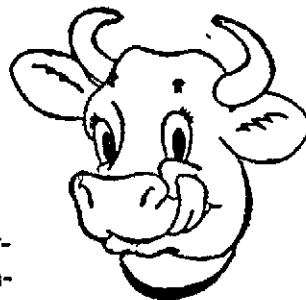

Dissolve the starch in a little cold water and add to it three-fourths pint hot water. Boil, stirring constantly, until a clear, thin paste is formed. Mix the dry strychnine and baking soda, sift them into the hot starch paste and stir to a smooth, creamy mass. Add the corn syrup, glycerine and saccharine and stir thoroughly. Pour this mixture over the oats and mix so that each grain is evenly coated.

Rural Life Meeting

Clergyman Discusses Vocation of Farming

GREEN BAY — The vocation of farming was discussed by the Rev. Thaddeus Kozarek, Sacred Heart Seminary, Oneida, at a final general planning meeting Wednesday for a Wisconsin Rural Life conference at Brown County Arena March 22.

About 100 men and women who are parish and deanery chairmen for the National Catholic Rural Life Conference in the 13 counties of the Green Bay Catholic diocese attended.

"The Catholic Church," the speaker said, "is interested in rural life for its many values inherent for the family. The family today greatly needs stability and farming provides family stability more so than many occupations. Land, as something requiring constant care and stewardship, demands the vigilance of a human family anchored to it," he said.

2,000 Expected

Co-chairmen for the rural life convention, expected to draw more than 2,000 delegates from farms, small communities and others interested in rural life, are Martin Salm Sr., Chilton, and Mrs. C. A. Perkins, De Pere. Salm is a member of the executive board of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference and Mrs. Perkins is rural life chairman for the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women.

Other chairmen are Ed Mleziva, Kewaunee, parking; the Rev. Benedict Marx, New Holstein, public address system; Mrs. Harold Wuyts, DePere, decorations; the Rev. Dismas, O. F. M., Pulaski, altar furnishings; Clarence Mueller, Chilton, ushers; Wencil Froelich, Green Bay, altar construction, and Mrs. David Gibb, Marinette, fire prevention and first aid.

The Rev. William Rickert, Spruce, is diocesan rural life director, and the regional directors are the Revs. Alfred Hietpas, Freedom; John G. Johaneck, Pilsen, and Henry Hubert, Neva.

Solemn High Mass

The convention will open with a solemn high mass at the arena on the feast day of St. Isidore, patron saint of farmers. Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona will be celebrant. Auxiliary Bishop John B. Grellinger will deliver the sermon. The Sacred Heart Seminary choir will sing the mass which will be followed by the traditional blessing of packets of seeds and soil brought by individual farmers.

A featured speaker at the program will be Donald McDowell, director of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Madison. He will speak on "Farming as a Way of Life in the 1960s."

Registration tickets, which are priced at $1, will be available at parishes throughout the Green Bay diocese during the coming weeks. A box luncheon will be served at noon at the arena.

WISCONSIN MICHIGAN POWER COMPANY'S NEW FARM SERVICE POLE PLAN

200 AMPERE FARM SERVICE ENTRANCE

Under this new program Wisconsin Michigan Power Company will deliver and set a 30-foot full-length-treated pole for a farmer who plans to modernize his wiring system. The full charge for the pole and setting is $30.00. We only require that you use the pole for a 200-ampere central service entrance. The pole will be set when our crews are doing other work in the same area.

This program is intended to help our farm customers who would not have the equipment to set a pole without a great deal of hand labor. It's no secret that most farms are inadequately wired. Farm service entrances installed 20 to 30 years ago are just not capable of handling the electrical loads on today's farms. Methods of farming have changed and electricity is playing a big role in modern farming. But, outdated farm wiring can hinder you in getting the most out of your electric service.

For further information and an application for the Farm Service Pole Plan call our representative in your area or write to Wisconsin Michigan Power Company, Appleton Attention: Commercial Division. If you wish, we will also advise you on size of wire and electrical equipment to meet your individual needs.

*Easy financing is also available
